Bataan Peninsula Falls To Japs

BREAK IN DEADLOCK SEEN

India Settlement Expected Within Two Days

By MACK JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(BUP) — Thirty-six thousand American and Filipino troops, exhausted by short rations, disease and lack of relief, were overwhelmed on Bataan peninsula today by a fresh and numerically superior enemy.

Secretary of war Henry L. Stimson, who disclosed for the first time the number and plight of the Bataan defenders, was unable to say how many of the 36,853 Yanks and Filipinos were killed, captured or wounded.

Stimson

He said that every effort was being made to get as many of them as possible to Corregidor and other American fortresses that still held out in the Manila Bay. But it appeared doubtful that any substantial number could be evacuated.

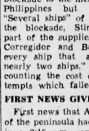

Stimson also revealed for the first time that some aid had been run through the Japanese sea blockade to the men fighting in the Philippines but at heavy cost. "Several ships" of supplies pierced the blockade, Stimson said, and part of the supplies arrived at the Corregidor and Bataan. "But for every ship that arriver we lost nearly two ships." Stimson said in counting the cost of the relief attempts which failed.

FIRST NEWS GIVEN

First news that American defence of the Bataan salient had collapsed came in a 3:15 a.m. communique from the war department which said that the American right flank had been turned and that a counter-attack failed because the men were exhausted. The communique added that the Bataan defences "probably have been overcome."

Stimson, who had just conferred with President Roosevelt, said at a press conference that in addition to the 36,853 Filipino troops on bloody Bataan there were some 20,000 civilian refugees there.

They had fled to Bataan at the time of the Japanese occupation of Manila. Their presence made the food situation more critical and handicapped the defenders.

Wainwright

"Our troops, out-numbered, worn down by attack and sickness, exhausted by insufficient rations and disease prevailing in that area, had their lines broken and enveloped by the enemy," Stimson said.

CORREGIDOR FIGHTING

"Our defences on Bataan have been overthrown. Corregidor is still fighting.

"A long and gallant defence has been worn down and overthrown.

"There is nothing but praise for the men who have so ably conducted an epic defence in the history of the Philippines."

As President Roosevelt and Gen. Douglas MacArthur before him, Stimson pledged that the United States would win back the Philippines from the Japanese and restore independence to the Filipino people who had made themselves so gallantly in the hopeless fight.

SUB SINKS ITALO CRUISER

Two Big British Cruisers Sunk By Nippon Bombers

LONDON, April 9.—(CP)—Two British eight-inch-gun cruisers, the 10,000-ton Cornwall and the 9,975-ton Dorsetshire, whose torpedoes finished off the German battleship Bismarck little less than a year ago, have been sunk by Japanese bombers ranging the Bay of Bengal and battering at thin-stretched British naval communications to India, the Admiralty announced today.

From New Delhi, it was announced also in a communique that combined enemy naval and air attacks had resulted in the sinking of several Allied merchant ships in the Indian ocean area.

The communique said 400 to 500 survivors had landed on the Orissa coast.

The shock of the loss of the two powerful ships rubbed the gilt off the Admiralty's announcement two hours earlier that a British submarine had sent a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser to the bottom of the central Mediterranean. However, the Admiralty communique said "it is known that more than 1,100 survivors, including the commanding officers of both ships, have been picked up."

The sinking of the Cornwall and Dorsetshire was a blow to the British naval strength immediately available to cope with Japanese aircarriers and warships reported increasing their activities astride the sea lanes to Australia in the bay between the bombed coast of India and invaded Burma.

OTHER CLAIMS

Japanese broadcasts quoted imperial headquarters claims that in addition to the cruisers Japanese forces sank 21 Allied merchantmen in the Bay of Bengal up to last Tuesday, and badly damaged 23 other ships.

Heard, too, but without any other confirmation, was a Berlin broadcast quoting dispatches purportedly from Tokyo that Japanese expeditionary forces supported by cruisers and destroyers landed last Sunday on the Burma west coast and were within 30 miles of the Bengal border of India.

That would place them between the border and the big Burma port of Akyab.

Earlier roundabout reports that the Japanese had forced their way ashore at Akyab have been denied by British headquarters at New Delhi.

The admiralty's announcement did not say when the Dorsetshire and Cornwall were sunk.

OTHERS NEAR AT HAND

There was no inimation what other warships were operating with the cruisers. The fact that more than 1,100 crew members were saved indicated other ships were on hand.

The Rome radio reported the remaining units of the British squadron were engaged in a running sea fight with strong Japanese naval forces.

Observers here said survivors of the cruiser sinkings might have been taken to the naval station at Trincomalee, target of a renewed Japanese air attack on Ceylon today.

Informed sources believed the British Indian Ocean naval squadron probably was operating from Trincomalee, or at least might have made for that base to await reinforcement after the smashing serial attack which cost the two cruisers.

RETALIATION

By JOSEPH MUNROE

VALETTA, Malta, April 9.—(BUP)—Maltese men and women who for four months have undergone the most concentrated and devastating bombing in history by Axis planes, clamored today for a retaliation bombing of Rome.

Men and women, digging in the ruins of their homes, stopped in their work to shake their fists at the enemy planes and call for retaliatory moves.

"Why isn't Rome bombed?" they asked. "Why isn't it bombed now?"

Malta and especially the city and harbor of Valetta, has been bombed almost daily since early December. This week German dive bombers, high level bombers, pursuit ships and fighters came over in swarms. Tuesday they bombed at daybreak, again at noon and a third time in the evening. They dropped bombs of 2,000 and 1,000 pounds. People in the rock-walled shelters felt the ground tremble as though an earthquake were shaking the city.

NINE DESTROYED

Wednesday the planes were back again, dumping their explosives. Nine enemy planes were destroyed, six probably were destroyed and eight were damaged. But the raids weren't so severe as Tuesday's.

People came out of the shelters that day to find many homes in ruins. In Auberges, which Disraeli once styled a "city built by gentle-

7 Persons Die During Blackout In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—(AP)—Seven persons died of heart attacks and an air raid warden fell off a two-storey building as the Los Angeles area blacked out an hour and 51 minutes last night. The warden was injured critically.

The blackout was ordered because of the "presence in the Los Angeles area of unidentified planes which later were identified as friendly," reported Lt.-Gen. John L. DeWitt of the western defence command at San Francisco.

There was no gunfire, as in Los Angeles' last blackout, Feb. 25. Los Angeles and Orange counties, the only ones blacked out, doused their lights quickly and nearly 100 per cent.

CIRCUS BLACKS OUT

Thousands of aircraft workers continued making warplanes, in blacked-out buildings, but all shipyards halted production from 9:03 p.m. P.D.T. (10:03 M.D.T.) until the all clear at 10:54 p.m.

BERLIN ADMITS BREAK-THROUGH BY RUSS TROOPS

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), April 9.—(AP)—A breakthrough by massed Russian infantry and tanks in German lines northeast of Orel was reported today by the Berlin radio, but it said that several days of hard fighting had restored the German line.

The daily high command communique said only that "in the central and northern sectors of the eastern front various powerful attacks by the enemy were repulsed."

Orel is about 200 miles south of Moscow and slightly west.

63 Diplomats At Hong Kong Will Be Exchanged

NEW YORK, April 9.—(BUP)—Radio Berlin, quoting a dispatch from Tokyo, said today that 63 Allied diplomats in Hong Kong would be exchanged for Japanese diplomats in Great Britain and the United States. Of these, four are Canadians, 49 are Americans, two Dutchmen, five Belgians, three Norwegians, the dispatch said.

Toronto Officer On Dorsetshire Parents Reveal

TORONTO, April 9.—(BUP)—A young Toronto officer, Lieut. J. Leslie Percy, was aboard the British cruiser Dorsetshire, today reported sunk in the Indian ocean.

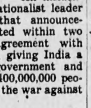

The presence of Percy aboard the Dorsetshire was revealed by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Percy. They said there was no word as to whether the lieutenant was among the survivors.

By P. D. SHARMA

NEW DELHI, India, April 9. — (BUP) — An influential Indian Nationalist leader said tonight that announcement is expected within two days of an agreement with Great Britain, giving India a Nationalist government and enlisting her 400,000,000 people actively in the war against the Axis.

Solution of the 21-day deadlock on Britain's offer of post-war Dominion status appeared near, by means of a compromise whereby the Indian people will have control of all cabinet portfolios including defence in the new government.

C. Rajagopalachari, premier of the government of Madras and former president of the dominant All India (National)-lasi Congress, predicted announcement of the settlement within two days, after various details are ironed out.

Nehru

It was Rajagopalachari who drafted the Congress-Nationalist counter proposal on which the reported final peace agreement was reached by Sir Stafford Cripps, British cabinet envoy, and Congress negotiators.

"You'll have to wait for two days for the settlement," he told correspondents. "We have waited for months and you should not hustle now. It's a Caesarian operation."

President Roosevelt's envoy to India, Louis A. Johnson, was playing a key role in working out the settlement and details concerning the direction of India's defence.

He conferred at noon with Cripps and Jawaharlal Nehru, left wing leader of the Indian National Congress, on matters dealing with the authority to be given British military leaders and Indian defence ministers.

Vice-Regal Party In City Thursday

On their way to Victoria, B.C., Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada, and H.R.H. Princess Alice passed through Edmonton at 8:35 a.m. Thursday over the C.N.R.

The vice-regal party occupied two private cars attached to the regular westbound train. None of the party left the train during the brief stop here.

There will be no formalities during the governor-general's trips through Alberta, according to information received in the lieutenant-governor's office here.

The vice-regal party will return to Edmonton, visiting Calgary April 22 during the 35-minute stop-over in that city.

Students Of High Schools In U.S. To Learn Aeronautics

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—High schools of the United States soon will be geared to the elementary training of pilots, J. W. Studebaker, U.S. commissioner of education, announced today. The plan contemplates the teaching of aeronautics in all High schools where 15 or more prospective air cadets can be enrolled.

TAKE AXIS PRISONERS

British Hit Back In Desert

By WALTER COLLINS

CAIRO, April 9.— (BUP)—British Empire forces, in a swift, hard counter-thrust, struck back today at the Axis forces pressing out from their positions between Derna and Tobruk on the Libya front, and took a number of prisoners.

The British forces struck at an enemy force which was trying to establish a strong point, possible jumping off place for an attack in force, between Timimi and El Gazala.

Another British column engaged an enemy force in the Sidi Bregisch sector.

The report said the Germans and Italians massed in the fighting area did not try to advance their positions yesterday but the British forces watched closely for an attack which would signal the start of a new drive for Suez.

There was a surge of activity all over the Mediterranean from Gibraltar, where Axis radios reported a heavy cannonading for 20 minutes during the night, to the desert where Col.-Gen. Erwin Rommel

Premier Plans Attend Meeting Of War Council

OTTAWA, April 9. — (CP)— Prime Minister Mackenzie King will go to Washington next week to attend a meeting of the newly-formed Pacific council, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs, said today in a luncheon address.

Dr. Evatt made the announcement with the permission of Mr. King who attended the luncheon, held under auspices of Ottawa Canadian Club.

It was first learned last weekend that Mr. King was giving serious consideration to a trip to Washington during the current parliamentary recess which ends April 20.

Defence Minister Ralston and Air Minister Power have just completed an examination of Pacific coast defences and it has been considered likely one or both of them might also attend one of the council meetings. Navy Minister Macdonald also is understood to be contemplating a visit to the United States

THE WAR At A Glance

Western Europe—R.A.F. bombs Hamburg and Le Havre.

U.S. Asking For More Aluminum

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—War production board officials and Canadian representatives will confer tomorrow on a proposal involving a possible increase in Canadian aluminum production by diverting power from pulp and paper mills.

One W.P.B. source said the plan contemplated a reduction of "roughly 10 per cent" in the amount of power furnished dominion mills supplying American newspapers with most of their newsprint.

"If the only question is that of sacrificing newsprint to get more aluminum, we'll have to take the aluminum, of course," another high-ranking official declared.

No contract has yet been signed for the additional aluminum, which would be furnished by Canadian plants of the Aluminum Company of America.

L.A. Blackout

LOS ANGELES, April 9.—(AP)—An all-clear signal at 10:54 p.m., Pacific War Time, last night ended a blackout in 17 cities of Los Angeles and Orange counties from 9:03 p.m.

Hundreds More Nazi Prisoners Reach Dominion

By The Canadian Press

Several hundred German prisoners of war, including airmen, sailors and soldiers, have arrived in Canada to spend the rest of the war behind barbed-wire entanglements in strongly-guarded prison camps.

After they were landed, the prisoners were whisked aboard trains and taken to their destination in "some part of Canada under strong escort.

Brought across the Atlantic under heavy guard, the prison ship had an uneventful voyage, although the ever-present threat of lurking U-boats forced it to zig zag continually.

Included in the large group of prisoners were a large number of naval officers and men, some survivors of the ill-fated Bismarck, and large numbers of submarine crew members, whose "tin fish" had been blasted from around them or captured by British warships.

Most noticeable thing about the sailors was their extreme youth and smallness of stature. They averaged nearly six inches shorter than the husky Canadian soldiers through whose ranks they were marched on their way to the trains, and looked little like a "master race".

Making a better showing were the airmen, once proud members of the haughty Luftwaffe, smashed out of the skies over Britain by the R.A.F. and anti-aircraft ground defences.

COSMETIC TINTS TO BE LIMITED BY BOARD ORDER

MONTREAL, April 9.—(CP)—Rouge, lipstick, face powder and finger nail polish—hitherto available in anything from a dozen to a score or more tints are to be limited to five shades for any one manufacturer when present stocks are exhausted, it was announced today by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Also limited will be new products or new lines of existing products. There will also be gradual elimination of non-essentials such as special facial creams.

Hamburg Port Is Attacked By R.A.F. Planes

LONDON, April 9.— (CP) — A strong force of R.A.F. bombers, during bad weather to continue their nightly assaults on Germany, attacked the key port of Hamburg and other objectives in northwest Germany last night, the air ministry reported today.

Docks at the German-occupied French port of Le Havre also were bombed, the communique reported.

Reports indicated some attackers were forced to turn back or bomb alternative targets because of the weather. The weather conditions had stopped the bombing Tuesday night.

Six bombers were lost in the forays, it was said.

Torpedo bombers of the coastal command yesterday afternoon attacked a convoy of enemy supply ships off the coast of Jutland but the air ministry said results of the attack could not be observed. Two coastal command planes were lost.

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS P. KEEMLE

Copyright, 1942, by the British United Press and the Edmonton Bulletin

New speculation about an Allied offensive against the Axis has been set off by the remark in London of Gen. George Marshall, United States chief of staff, concerning American "expansion" overseas.

There is no question that an offensive is being considered but it is obvious that the responsible heads of the Allied nations have no intention of being stampeded into hasty and ill-planned action by those who are demanding an immediate "second front" against Hitler.

British and American strategists will decide when and where to attack. One thing is certain, that they will not move until they are reasonably sure the offensive will succeed.

Man Wanted By Edmonton Police Arrested In South

CALGARY, April 9. — (CP) — Maurice Hurdus, alias Herby Green, wanted by Edmonton police to answer a charge of robbery with violence, was arrested here last night for alleged theft of $17 here earlier in the day.

Hurdus appeared in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty to stealing $17 from the person of Cecil Irwin, Calgary. He was remanded to Friday.

Edmonton police want Hurdus for an armed robbery and assault which took place in an Edmonton hotel on the night of March 27.

Fear Famine

VICHY, April 9.—(AP) — Vice-Premier Jean Darlan told French peasants Wednesday that not only France but all Europe is counting on them to combat a famine which would "result in a Communist triumph." He criticized the Vichy governmental policy of making farmers hand over wheat for administration control.

Storied City Of Mandalay In Ruins

By DARRELL BERRIGAN

MANDALAY, April 4.—(BUP)—Delayed — The dawn came up like thunder today.

Through the night a fleet of Japanese bombers ranged the skies unmolested, dropping their death loads.

Tonight this city of pagodas and tradition lay in smoking ruins.

The prosperous commercial district is a shambles with hundreds of dead and wounded. At this moment a large moon is rising over the grotesque bodies of men, women and children, which remain in the streets.

Casualties are estimated from 5,000 to 8,000, with probably 2,000 to 3,000 killed and hundreds wounded critically, but no definite count has been made yet.

Three-quarters of the downtown district, trading centre for Mandalay's 135,000 residents, were reduced to ashes and rubble. Heavy bombs folded brick and concrete structures like match sticks, burying occupants.

No warning was sounded. Had the population been warned in time, casualties undoubtedly would have been lighter.

One area a mile square, where were hundreds of native homes and shops was burned to the ground by incendiary bombs. There was no chance to check the fire as a strong south wind swept the flames through the dry buildings. Hundreds of natives, caught completely by surprise, burned to death. Few

DELIVERY SERVICE WELL-ORGANIZED

World-Wide Work Of Ferrying Planes Up To Schedule

By REUEL S. MOORE

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(BUP)—Delivering the thousands of airplanes rolling monthly out of American factories to Allied and American fighting forces is a big, world-wide job, but at ferrying command headquarters, which first undertook delivery of planes to the British ferrying command in Canada, they say deliveries are right up to schedule.

Just what they mean by this they won't say specifically, but President Roosevelt's program calls for an output of 60,000 air-planes in 1942.

The ferrying command takes over at the factory and has custody of the planes only long enough to complete delivery. It is reliably stated that at all times the ferrying command is operating a fleet of planes exceeding the combined commercial aviation enterprise in the United States.

TRAFFIC ROOM

This correspondent was given the privilege of looking at the ferrying command's traffic room in an emergency war building here. Where the planes are routed by three walls were huge maps. On each map were numerous card-board cutouts hung on hooks, each representing a plane in transit from factory to its destined unit. Correspondent wasn't given opportunity to count them but there were several score.

At one side of the room were a battery of teletype machines transmitting orders to various ferrying command stations and receiving reports of deliveries to and from the command.

The American ferrying command is only ten months old, but has expanded very rapidly since it first began delivering planes to Canada and now embraces a personnel of thousands. Organized under the lend-lease act, it later expanded its operations into the Atlantic and Pacific to deliver machines to Africa, Russia, China and the East Indies. To carry out this task an elaborate network of communications, meteorological stations, and flying fields was organized.

CIVILIAN PILOTS

The command controlled hundreds of civilian pilots to augment regular and reserve army fliers. To become a civilian ferry pilot, a flier must have had 300 hours flying, including 100 hours in a plane of over 200 horsepower. As the civilian ferry the planes they are instructed in army methods routine and flight, and ultimately are taken into the U.S. army as commissioned officers. No until they obtain their commission do the pilots receive army ranks or an opportunity to undertake the thrilling duty of delivering planes overseas. Presently many qualify to fly combat machines.

Many women want to be ferry pilots and elle the example of the British ferry service which has women fliers. But the U.S. army is adamant in refusing their services, because there is still a large pool of male talent to draw from and these fliers can ultimately become combat pilots while the women cannot.

The ferry pilots, particularly on overseas flights, encounter all sorts of difficulties calling for resourcefulness—desert dust storms, tropical hurricanes and typhoons, ice-forming storms and rains, snows and fogs that blot out visibility. They must fly over routes on which limited navigation facilities are available or where navigation aids must not be used for fear of inciting enemy action.

27,000-MILE TRIP

Then there are such odd jobs as delivering the Harriman mission to Moscow. Two Ferrying Command planes were assigned to the task. They flew to Murmansk via the Arctic route, then to Teheran in Africa, crossing the equator and the South Atlantic. The other re-turned around the world via Australia. The latter's round trip was 27,000 miles.

There are lots of other spectacular flights than those you haven't also about. Despite the difficulties the enemy may impose on far-flung fronts the Ferrying Command continues to get the planes through.

When the army announces that Flying Fortresses have gone into action in the Philippines or Burma or New Guinea, it means that the Ferrying Command has carried out another difficult assignment.

War Drive By Canada Given High Praise

NEW YORK, April 9.—(CP)—Mayor La Guardia, arriving by air Wednesday from Montreal where he presided over a meeting of the joint permanent defence board, praised the Canadian war effort in a press interview at La Guardia airport.

He said many people outside Canada failed to realize that while the total population of Canada is but little more than that of the metropolitan New York area, "their war production and effort is that of a country of 100,000,000 people."

"The Canadians are doing a swell job in both production and manpower devoted toward winning the war," the mayor said. "When you realize how few people there are in Canada and how many industries—agriculture, mining, manufacturing, fishing and maritime activities—you will see that it is not an easy task for them to continue their various civilian activities and at the same time provide an abundance of war materials. It is only fair that the very excellent job they are doing with what they have on hand should be acknowledged."

The mayor said the board's next meeting would be April 27 in New York. He declined to describe what occurred at the Montreal meeting except to say that "we had a crowded calendar."

Churchill States: "Will Never Pause"

LONDON, April 9.—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill, accepting a cheque from Free Danes at 10 Downing Street today, said: "We shall never pause in our struggle, nor will our great American and Russian allies."

"I have very little doubt that the day will come, perhaps sooner than it would be prudent or wise to hope, when Denmark will be free from the grip in which she has been held, and when she will resume her independent, honored and ancient place among the free peoples and states of Europe," Mr. Churchill declared.

"Good weather is needed to turn this splendid cheque into the first heavy thunder drops of the storm which is to beat on this odious tyranny."

261 Greek Lives Lost In Wrecking Of 2 Small Ships

LONDON, April 9.—(CP)—The lives of 261 Greek men, women and children were reported today to have been lost in a Mediterranean storm which smashed two small vessels in which they were escaping from Axis-occupied Aegean islands to Turkey.

A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Smyrna said one of the vessels, bearing 236 persons, had been dashed to pieces on a reef near Kandilla Island, 30 miles off the Turkish coast. Only 29 of those aboard managed to reach land.

All but 27 of 81 passengers aboard the other craft perished in the same storm, the news agency said.

Bataan Is Now Believed Lost To Jap Forces

Wainwright, the American Philippines commander, that he would leave to him any decisions to be made regarding the battle.

This was taken to mean that Mr. Roosevelt had empowered Wainwright with full authority to surrender his exhausted army if necessary to save further bloodshed and sacrifice that no longer could accomplish any purpose.

Wainwright is now at Fort Mills on Corregidor, from where he sent the fateful news of Bataan early this morning.

DIRECTS SUPPLY

Stimson, disclosing that the army and navy had been able to get ammunition and limited food supplies to the Philippines, said the supply organization was directed from Australia by Brig. Gen. Patrick E. Hurley, former secretary of war in the Hoover cabinet and now minister to New Zealand.

"Our forces have never been short of ammunition owing to these efforts," Stimson said. "There is plenty of small arms and artillery ammunition, but had been on short rations since the 11th of January.

"That long strain has been a very potent factor in wearing down our troops and placing them in a situation in which they no longer had the necessary strength to continue the attack in the way they had been so ably doing for so long."

The 36,853 U.S.-Filipino effectives last reported in Wainwright's defence lines did not include the forces on Corregidor and other harbor forts at the entrance of Manila Bay, or scattered forces elsewhere on Luzon and other Philippine Islands.

It was disclosed that there was only one complete regular U.S. army infantry regiment in the Philippines at the outbreak of the war, the 31st, long stationed in the islands.

AIRMEN JOIN INFANTRY

The Philippines Scout Force—Philippine troops in the U.S. army—numbered about 10,500.

Since there about 20,000 air personnel in the Philippines. As the Americans lost their planes, owing to the superiority of the Japanese in the air, at least 2,000 and possibly more of these joined the defence forces as infantry.

The 20,000 civilians on Bataan complicated the closing days of the battle of bloody Bataan. Carrying for months the dead weight was a drain on the fighting forces and may have hastened the collapse of the defence, it was said.

Outnumbered from the start, low on supplies and lacking air support, the defenders fulfilled to the end their promise and their purpose. That was to make the enemy pay and pay, in men, in equipment, and in time, for every inch of ground gained.

EPIC OF VALOR

In that they succeeded. The battle for the Bataan peninsula, a 13-mile wide stretch of jungle and mountains, went down as a national epic of valor.

The fateful message from Wainwright was announced by the war department shortly after Gen. Wainwright was on Corregidor fortress, which lies two miles from Bataan at the mouth of Manila Bay. There the entire defence control of the bay will be carried on. But there was no indication whether Wainwright would be able to evacuate many of his Bataan forces to the fortress.

SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES

Wainwright's men suffered heavy losses during days of fighting. They had no planes to combat all kinds of enemy aircraft that bombed and strafed them front and rear. They had no reinforcements in the face assault of fresh enemy troops. They had only courage and the hope that reinforcements would be forthcoming. But the balance deteriorated, the entire surrounding waters prevented the dispatch of reinforcements.

Only a few small boats—such as the torpedo boats which took Mac-Arthur out of Corregidor—could make the passage through the Japanese blockade. No means could be found for getting men or aerial reinforcements, to Bataan.

It was doubted in army circles here that many of the troops on Bataan could be evacuated to the island-forts on Manila Bay.

The question to be answered now is how long can Corregidor and the bay forts hold out. The supply of ammunition cannot hold out forever and when that is gone the two-mile island becomes the graves tip of Bataan and Corregidor will be easy for the Japanese to cross.

Heavy Earthquake Centring In Yellow Sea Is Recorded

BOMBAY, India, April 9.—(CP)—An earthquake of great intensity, apparently centring in the Yellow Sea between Japan and the China coast, was recorded here last night at 9:19 p.m. (11:49 a.m. M.D.T., Wednesday.)

Two more shocks of lesser intensity were recorded today at 1:08 a.m. and 5:35 a.m.

The epicentre was calculated to be about 3,160 miles from Bombay near latitude 35 north, longitude 125 east.

Hungary Protests Creation Of New Military Union

LONDON, April 9. — (CP) — The Moscow radio in a broadcast heard here said today that Hungary had protested to Germany and Italy because of the formation of a Rumanian-Croatian-Slovakian military union whose aim was to prevent further Hungarian territorial encroachment and regain land already lost to that country.

British Take Prisoners In Desert Battle

commanding a formidable German-Italian army, appeared feeling out British strength.

Raids were under almost continuous aerial attack and reports said that in the 24 hours up to midnight the Germans and Italians had lost nine planes shot down, six probably shot down and eight damaged for a total of 24.

Here the tense situation was marked by the arrest of former premier Ali Maher Pasha under regulations concerning the security of the state.

"FREAKS" ACTIVITIES

Last night's middle-eastern command communique said the Germans seemed advancing in two or three columns on the Tmimi-Mekili tracks across the desert inland from Derna.

British light forces are in contact with the enemy, the communique said, and are watching all movements.

It was indicated that there might soon be a clash between large forces of Empire and Axis troops but military quarters said that so far the Axis movement had been of a feeler nature, and it was not yet certain whether Rommel intended to start a general offensive.

Police Present Spitfire Plane

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, April 9.—(CP)—The Canadian Policeman," a trim cannon-firing Spitfire, was presented Wednesday to a Canadian fighter squadron commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. C. N. S. Campbell, D.F.C., of the Royal Air Force, on behalf of the policemen of Canada and United States.

The fighter, which will be flown by a former "Mountie," PO. Gordon Hoben of Ottawa, a veteran of 15 trips over enemy territory as a bomber pilot, was turned over by Air Vice-Marshal Harold Edwards, who recalled the R.C.M.P.'s reputation of getting its man.

"In this case I hope the pilot gets all his men when the time comes to go into action," he added.

Sir Philip Game said 100,000 policemen had contributed toward the Spitfire fund.

The party of 12 former Mounties at the ceremony, including air men and army men, was in charge of Maj. G. W. Ball, of Edmonton, acting provost marshal of the Canadian Overseas Forces.

French Continue Hounding Nazis

VICHY, April 9.—(AP)—The German sponsored Paris newspaper Le Matin said Wednesday 27 persons were brought to trial there Tuesday on charges of terrorist attacks against German occupation forces and "French political groups." The trials are expected to last a week.

Even as the case got under way, a new terrorist attack was reported in Tours where a bomb was hurled into a local headquarters of the National Popular Assembly organization of Marcel Deat, proponent of collaboration with the Germans. The bomber escaped on a bicycle.

The interior of the building was wrecked, but there were no casualties.

men for gentlemen," many of the magnificent castles were in ruins.

The Palace of Prince Chigi, who now lives in Rome is partly in ruins, and the Royal Opera house, an architectural triumph where the Italian artists once performed each year, has been blasted into ruins by the Luftwaffe.

Damage to military objectives, however, has been comparatively light, and it appears that the enemy, angered at the refusal of the Maltese to quail before the merciless attacks, has now turned to civilian objectives.

PEOPLE UNDAUNTED

But, despite the battering the island has taken, the Maltese appear undaunted, and yesterday's noise of bursting bombs was replaced today by the clink of steel shovels and picks as the work of reconstruction began.

"We will hold out forever," one veteran of 2,000 bombing attacks said. "Let them lay flat our homes, they'll come up again. And if we have no homes we will sleep in the shelters until victory."

(London radio today quoted the Berlin Boersen Zeitung as saying it was of utmost importance for the Axis to eliminate Malta, from which British squadrons could operate from there and harass Sicily, southern Italy and northern Africa.)

Plans Ready For Week Of Crusade

TORONTO, April 9—(CP)—Plans to celebrate the week of April 19 with dedication services by all religious denominations throughout Canada were announced here Wednesday night by Lieut. Gov. Albert Matthews of Ontario, head of a committee comprising the nine provincial premiers, heads of religious denominations and prominent educationists and businessmen.

The announcement said the week would be called "The Great Crusade," and would be held in co-operation with similar observances in Great Britain, the U.S., Britain, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. Object of the movement was to "stimulate spiritual revival of English-speaking people of the world in their fight against bare and naked assault against Christian civilization."

Letters of suggestion for the special services have been sent to clergymen of all denomina tions in Canada.

English Coastal Town Is Bombed, Gunned By Raider

A SOUTH COAST TOWN, England, April 9.—(CP)—A German bomber swooped in from the sea early today, dropped a stick of bombs which damaged a hospital and a park pavilion and then machine-gunned fire streets before heading back across the coast.

One person was killed and several injured, but damage was reported slight.

Former Edmontonian Dies In Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., April 9.—(CP)—William John Bridgeman, 37, assistant manager of Huron and Erie Mortage Corporation since he came to Windsor six years ago, died Wednesday in a hospital after a brief illness. INVASION ANNIVERSARY

Norse Pledge Increasing Resistance To Nazi Rule

By JOHN A. FARRIS

LONDON, April 9.—(BUP)—Norwegians, angered almost to the point of open resistance by the attempts of German puppet leader Vidkun Quisling to suppress the church, observed the second anniversary of the German invasion today, pledging increasing resistance to the Nazis.

Reports from Norway indicated that nothing that has happened since the Quislingites helped the German army conquer Norway has aroused the population so much as Quisling's persecution of the church and the clergy. Every Protestant clergyman had resigned in protest and it was understood that hundreds of lawyers and physicians have refused to practice.

A Norwegian government spokesman here said the church crisis had come to a head while home front than anything we could have done."

A secret leaflet circulated in Norway in support of the bishops and church men, who planned to function as "free pastors" and who may attempt to use the churches for services, despite their resignations.

"NOW WE WILL ATTACK"

"The Norwegian people look with admiration to its bishops and pastors and are grateful to them that they are so courageous and are accomplishing their duties while they watch over everything that is sacred to us," the leaflet was quoted here. "In this battle for truth and justice, the Norwegian people stand entirely on the side of its bishops and pastors. It is a deadly battle between Christians and barbarians.

"We have fought with all our power during two years, but we have had to limit ourselves to defence. Now we will attack . . . The battle of Norway's church is Norway's battle. For the beginning it will be an underground battle. But this battle will bring light into Norway. Then we will all leave our hiding places. We will go into battle. We will reconstruct our fatherland according to our wishes. Spring is coming!"

The Norwegian government's intelligence department disclosed that Quisling had empowered local men to replace the resigned clergymen, and said it was "the first time in Nazi history inexperienced persons have been permitted to wear church raiment."

TWO ALTERNATIVES

"This is definite proof," it said. "that Quisling will not compromise and intends to fight on in his effort to suppress the freedom of the Norwegian church."

It appeared that Germany must be prepared for a state of siege or remove the puppet Quisling to stem the mounting Norse opposition.

As the German-dominated population at home started its third year under the Nazis, the Norwegian government-in-exile recounted the outstanding events of the second year of opposition.

A protest on May 15 by 43 of Norway's leading national organizations against the Quisling government, a protest on June 30 by Norwegian trade unions against lowering the standard of living; a strike of actors in July; the Oslo milk strike in September; the resignation in February of all seven of Norway's bishops, followed a few days later by the resignation of 10,000 school teachers from the "Teachers' Front"; and the mass resignation of the Norwegian clergy.

The German said 350,000 trade union ists pursue their slogan: "Work slowly and work badly," and are conducting active sabotage. Thousands of civil employees have become obstructionists and have "turned many decrees of the puppet Quislings into a farce."

139 Transport Planes Of Nazi Army Wiped Out

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 9.—(AP)—Soviet fliers and ground gunners have destroyed 139 Nazi transport planes assigned to supply isolated northwestern front units in three days of a 10-day period which cost the Germans a total of 545 aircraft.

Evidence that Germany is rushing new aircraft into war service was announced in a communique.

"Anti-aircraft men of one unit shot down a Junkers 88 (dive-bomber) which was relased from the factory Feb. 22, 1942, No. 8,719," it said. "Men of this group a few days later shot down three more planes released by the factory in March, 1942. One airman who bailed out was captured."

Infantrymen on a Kalinin front sector attacked by numerically-superior forces crippled several Nazi tanks by well-organized fire and then routed the Germans with a bayonet attack. The communique said German troops on the Moscow central front village after fighting which left the approaches littered with their dead.

The Soviet information bureau said Axis efforts to get fresh troops and munitions into the Arctic Murmansk sector suffered another setback with sinking of two transports, rated at 5,500 and 10,500 tons, by Red navy units in the Barents Sea.

Near the close of the show, the master of ceremonies announced the blackout. Someone laughed — thought he was clowning. Then out went the lights.

An eerie shriek sounded. A hyena laughed? Or a lion?

RELAX—FOR A TIME

"That's all right, folks," shouted an usher. "The animals think the show's over. They do that every night."

The band struck up a lively air. The crowd relaxed until . . . was that a tiger? or an elephant trumpeting?

Fifteen spectators silently stole outside.

In Long Beach, Dorothy Maynor, Negro soprano, was concluding the first number of a concert before a crowd of 5,000 when the blackout sirens wailed. She promised to sing until the all clear, or her voice gave out. Her voice failed, and the crowd got 45 minutes more entertainment than was programmed.

1,250 Cases Of Typhus Reported In Nazi Capital

MOSCOW, April 9—(AP)—More than 1,250 cases of typhus have been registered in the city in the last two weeks, creating an epidemic that is "daily assuming more threatening proportions."

Pravda Martin, Germany, Nazi military authorities were compelled to delay the dispatch of reinforcements on the front because of an outbreak of typhus among the troops, the Soviet news agency declared.

Army Enlistments Showing Increase

Enlistments in the Canadian Army (Active) are showing a considerable increase to date in April, over the corresponding period of last month, it was stated Thursday by Lt.-Col. Alan Elliott, officer commanding No. 13A district depot.

The officer did not have the exact figures for April but stated they will show an encouraging increase in enlistments when released.

On Wednesday 28 men made application for enlistment, and 19 were sworn in after successfully passing medical examinations.

Canada's War Work Praised By Australian

OTTAWA, April 9—(CP)—Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs, declared here yesterday that Australia is not blaming Canada because "little or nothing" of Canada's war production has been applied to Australia's direct use.

"The plain fact is that Canada has fulfilled very heavy commitments to the United Kingdom and other countries," he said at a press conference.

"I want to make it plain that Australia has much admiration for this Dominion's vigorous war effort," he said.

"Canada has already taken part in the Pacific war. The part taken by the soldiers of Canada in the defence of Hong Kong will never be forgotten in Australia.

"The same enemy that overwhelmed your soldiers there, now threatens Australia with invasion. I know that Canada realizes that Japan must be beaten back from Australia.

"In the battle for Australia, Japan can win or lose domination of the Pacific, and on that battle's outcome hangs the security of every nation on the Pacific shores."

Wednesday night Dr. and Mrs. Evatt were guests of Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the cabinet war committee at dinner.

Naval Base On Ceylon Bombed

COLOMBO, Ceylon, April 9—(CP)—The city of Trincomalee, where Britain has a naval base, was bombed this morning, it was announced.

A British communique said fire reports indicated no civilian casualties.

At the same time, two enemy planes were sighted over Colombo but no bombs were dropped.

Trincomalee is on the northeast coast of this island off the southern tip of India.

The raid was the first reported on the important naval base in Ceylon but it was not the first attack by the Japanese against the island. Japanese planes bombed Colombo Easter Sunday, the day of major attack which British authorities declared boomeranged and cost the raiders heavily.

Ruth's Condition Said Improving

HOLLYWOOD, April 9—(AP)—Babe Ruth, stricken critically ill yesterday, is improving slowly, but is not out of danger.

Kuibyshev Paper Praises British

KUIBYSHEV, Russia, April 9—(AP)—The English-language newspaper "Moscow News" praised British Wednesday for the recent heavy R.A.F. bombings of Occupied France and Germany, declaring that "What Goebbels and his ilk fail to realize is that the more reverses a Britisher suffers the tougher he gets and the Fascists will learn to their sorrow."

The newspaper also predicts a great offensive by the United States and said America are "people who received statehood and won democratic rights not by sitting down but by standing up and fighting."

Hull City Council Refuses To Urge Negative Ballots

HULL Que., April 9.—(CP)—A motion, sponsored by Alderman F. E. St Jean and Alderman J. A. Maurice, asking that the city council to urge Hull citizens to vote "no" in the April 27 manpower plebiscite was withdrawn at a council meeting Tuesday night on advice of Mayor Raymond Brunet.

The aldermen made the motion after receipt of letters from the Small Property Owners' Association and the Catholic Labor Syndicate asking council to urge a negative vote.

"As civic representatives it is not up to us to advise the electorate on such a matter," the mayor said. "If others wish to take it upon themselves, that is their business."

No Ration Books For Colored Gas

OTTAWA, April 9.—(CP)—Housewives and others will not require ration books to buy the colored gasoline they will use to fuel heating, lighting, cooking, and washing appliances, it was announced yesterday by the Department of Munitions and Supply.

A departmental statement said Oil Controller G. R. Cottrelle points out that the colored gasoline must not be employed in operation of any motor vehicle or any non-commercial marine engine. It is intended chiefly for use in farm tractors, stationary engines, and commercial marine engines.

Throughout Canada the gasoline for non-commercial marine engines will be the same unmarked gasoline as that sold for motor vehicles.

COMMISSION PROBES NORDEGG DISASTER

Mines Branch Charges Safety Rules Were Neglected

Evidence Established Complaint Book Held Back From Inspector

The Mines Act of the province of Alberta provides a very complete safety plan for mining operations, and if these safety regulations had been carried out it is unlikely that the explosion on October 31 last at the Brazeau Collieries Ltd., Nordegg mine, would have occurred, C. M. Macleod, K.C., counsel for the provincial mines branch, asserted when submitting argument to the Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the cause of the accident.

He submitted also that the mines branch inspector, W. G. Heeley, Calgary, had no possible chance of finding out the condition of the Nordegg mine, and the company withheld from him a book in which complaints by miners, and fire bosses of the presence of gas in the mine had been entered.

Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing, royal commissioner, asked the mines branch counsel if Mr. Heeley should have been aware of the gaseous state of the mine. He said it appeared strange he should be in ignorance of this state when nearly everyone else had knowledge of it.

He paid tribute to Mr. Heeley as a conscientious man, but added that "It does seem a bit strange that everyone else seemed to know there was gas, but he did not. Of course it is true that the mine records were no use to him, and in fact were misleading."

KEPT TWO BOOKS

Mr. Macleod had previously pointed out that the book in which complaints were made was not shown to the mine inspector, but that a book in which no record of any complaint had been entered was given him for inspection.

Mr. Justice Ewing intimated he was impressed with the suggestion of counsel for the United Mine Workers of America and the company that safety work in the mine should be divorced from actual mining operations. He asked the counsel to consult with their technical advisers regarding a workable plan to achieve this objective.

A. L. Smith, K.C., Calgary, counsel for the United Mine Workers, intimated that this proposed change might not be acceptable to the provincial mines branch as it would concern the branch with propositions which might be classified under mine management.

WRITTEN EXTRACTS

At the conclusion of the presentation of argument M. M. Porter, K.C., Calgary, counsel for the Brazeau Collieries, Ltd., asked for permission to submit in writing extracts from the evidence to answer to portions of evidence quoted by Mr Macleod.

Mr. Justice Ewing asked counsel to have the extracts submitted as soon as possible as he contemplated bringing down his finding in the near future.

Nerves Taken From Corpses To Heal Limbs

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS

LONDON, April 9.—(BUP)—The Soviet War News, published by the Russian embassy, reported yesterday that Professor A. S. Vishnevsky, head of the surgical department of the Soviet Neurological Clinic, for the first time had succeeded in transplanting nerves from corpses into the bodies of living persons.

It said the operations had been performed many times with "excellent results."

"A wounded Red Army commander recently was brought to the clinic," the publication said. "His arm was severly injured. A mine splinter had torn out part of a muscle and a section of the main motor nerve.

"As the severed ends of the nerve were one and a half centimetres apart, they could not be sewn together. Vishnevsky performed an operation, using a piece of nerve from a person killed in an accident.

RETURNS TO SERVICE

"The transplanted nerve took root and the commander is able to use his arm as if nothing had happened. Today he is in active service at the front."

The Soviet war news said the problem of restoring the function of a limb when the motor nerve had been injured seriously had been a medical problem. Vishnevsky's method, it said, had the added advantage of employing nerves taken from corpses which, when properly treated after removal, can be preserved indefinitely.

"Thus the surgeon can be provided with a complete set of different nerves ready for use whenever the necessity arises," the article concluded.

An invasion of Europe will require a huge force of men and vast equipment. To move them and keep them supplied will call for a big fleet of ships and it will be a strain on the limited Allied shipping facilities.

There is every reason to believe that the Allies would like to strike while Hitler still is using up the greater part of his strength against Russia. The question is whether they will be prepared to do it before Hitler's expected offensive in the East has been decided one way or the other.

FULL CONSIDERATION

It is no secret that Allied strategists have given full consideration to the northern route through Norway, France or the Low Countries are a possibility, but Hitler has stronger forces there than in Norway and has built up strong coastal defences. They might find it as hard or harder to cross the Channel than Hitler did in 1940, when he had overwhelming air supremacy and a huge army in France.

There are several reasons in favor of an attack on the Germans in Norway. One is that Hitler has reduced his forces of occupation there by about two-thirds for use on the Eastern front. Another is that Norwegians, far from being supine under the Hitler yoke, are bitter with revolt.

It is certain that if the Allies come, they will rise to arms almost to a man. Rebellion simultaneously would be fanned in the other occupied countries of Europe, where Hitler likewise has been compelled by the Russian struggle to reduce his forces.

HITLER WORRIED

Hitler apparently is worried by the possibilities in Norway. He is reported to be increasing his forces there again because of the popular unrest and resistance and presumably also because he senses the danger of an Allied attack. He has an unknown number of his warships, including the giant battleship Tirpitz on guard in Norwegian waters.

It also seems significant that Hitler has sent his ace European blitzkrieger, Field Marshal Gen. Siegmund Wilhelm List to Norway. List is one of Hitler's most trusted trouble shooters.

It was List who mopped up Austria and reorganized the army there. He was an outstanding leader in the Polish campaign and crushed the Poles in Galicia. He led the 12th German army on the Aisne. In 1941 he led the German army in Bulgaria and crushed southern Yugoslavia and Greece.

Where List is there generally is action.

Hog Prices Reach Another New Peak

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Hog prices hit new 16 year peaks for the third consecutive session in early trading Wednesday but lost practically all their initial gains later as packers and shippers resisted the upturn.

Choice hogs brought $14.35 a hundred pounds early, high since mid-September, 1926, but later sales were made at $14 down. Initial gains ranged from 15 to 20 cents as the number of hogs offered for sale continued relatively small.

Assurance that the agricultural marketing administration, a United States government buying agency, will continue to make heavy pork and lard purchases was considered primarily responsible for the early advance.

Choice steers hit $16.70 a hundred pounds, highest since December, 1937, but cattle trading was dominated by divergent trends. Good medium and weighty steers were weak to 25 cents lower.

Oppose Embargo

TORONTO, April 9.—(CP)—The agriculture committee of the Ontario legislature Wednesday unanimously adopted a motion "strongly opposing" the placing of an embargo on the export of cattle to the United States.

Some Things Still Happen In Brooklyn

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Existence of a gambling syndicate in Brooklyn which did a $100,000,000 business yearly by paying for police protection and operating "unabated and in open and flagrant violation of the penal laws" was charged Wednesday in presentments from two special Kings County grand juries.

A special assistant attorney general, John Harlen Amen, who led an 11-months' investigation into the activities of book-makers and policy banks, charged that the yearly protection "take" was more than $1,000,000.

49 ARE NAMED

The presentments named 49 members of the police department and four lawyers. The jury charged that the lawyers represented policy organizations and appeared regularly in behalf of individuals who did not hire them.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine announced last night he had suspended 32 of those named, pending departmental trials. Some of those mentioned in the presentments have already retired or filed applications to do so.

DOING VERY WELL

The presentments said many policemen, receiving salaries of approximately $3,000 a year, "have been found to possess boats ranging from outboard motor boats to 30-foot cruisers. A considerable number own gummer homes. Many have been found to own permanent residences costing $10,000 or more.

"Practically all of the men examined own automobiles, some of them of the most expensive make. The wives of some of these men have been found to own fur coats costing from $1,000 to $1,700."

The explanation given by the policemen for the luxuries, the jury said, was the receipt of cash gifts from dead relatives.

Seven of the policemen were members of former members of Police Commissioner Lewis Valentine's confidential squad, charged with preventing graft and corruption among the city's police.

Storied City Of Mandalay Gets Bombing escaped with more than the clothes they wore.

All 12 buildings of the General hospital were burned in the ground. China town, one of the most congested areas, is still littered with dead humans, horses, cattle and dogs.

The fire is still blazing, threatening to spread to the only business block still unlamaged.

Roads leading from the city in every direction are choked with evacuees. Some are leaving on foot, others in ox carts. All are fleeing with but a single thought in mind—to escape the Japanese terror of the skies.

The tinder-dry city was a perfect target for incendiary bombs. In one quarter of the metropolitan area, the fire was stopped by the wide moat circling the hotel which is of Mandalay fort. But the flames crept around the fort and swept northward.

WATER SUPPLY FAILS

Temporary failure of the municipal water supply prevented effective action by the fire department, which recently was reinforced by equipment from evacuated Rangoon, 350 airline miles to the south. Some water was pumped from the moat around the old fort, but the efforts were ineffective.

Missionaries provided as much succor as possible for the wounded. Converting the Baptist school into a temporary hospital, they brought victims from the bomb area by car and truck. They took over a hotel where in a short time they had 30 Indian and Burmese men, women and children lying seriously wounded on the floor. There were improvised cots for only a few. Dr. Gordon Jury, grey-haired professor of physics from Hamilton, Ont., was there, washing and bandaging wounds while Mrs. Jury quietly walked among the wounded, trying to comfort them.

NEW BARS

Home Building Banned By U.S.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—The United States war production board Wednesday night prohibited new construction of non-essential residences, roads and commercial buildings, and indicated that projects already under way might be halted if the materials going into them could be used more effectively in the war program.

The order is effective today. Specifically it bans any residential construction other than maintenance and repair work if the cost is $500 or more, unless specific government permission is granted. Special permission must be obtained for new agricultural construction if the estimated cost is $1,000 or more.

No other types of construction, commercial, industrial, recreational, institutional highway, or utilities, whether publicly or privately financed, may be started without permission if the cost of the project is more than $5,000.

The drastic action, which board chairman Donald Nelson had declared would virtually "suspend the civilian construction industry," does not apply to ordinary maintenance and repair work needed to restore a structure to "sound working condition."

OTTAWA RUMORS

Canada May Raise Status Of Washington Legation Into That Of Embassy

OTTAWA, April 9.—(CP)—Reports were heard in Ottawa yesterday that the Canadian legation in Washington might soon be raised to the status of an embassy, under an ambassador who would be a member of the cabinet.

It would be regarded as a promotion for any member of the cabinet, with the exception of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, to be moved to Washington as an ambassador.

This has given rise to speculation that Defence Minister Ralston would be deserving of such a promotion. However, this raised the point whether he could be spared from his present post.

Officials declined to comment on the report an embassy will be established in Washington but it is known such a change has been talked about in high government circles.

Canada's growing importance in international affairs, as a major producer of most of the materials essential to prosecution of the war and as a participant in vital war councils in Washington, are factors which have revived the embassy proposal.

The report is strengthened, also, by the fact that most if not all of the western hemisphere countries represented in Washington have ambassadors there.

If such a change were made presumably it would involve retirement of Hon. Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister to the United States since February, 1941, to make way for appointment of a cabinet minister as ambassador.

Schools Approved

OTTAWA, April 9.—(CP)—Five plant schools in war industries—one in Quebec and four in Ontario—designed to give technical and practical training for specialized occupations have received certificates of approval from the labor department, it was announced Wednesday.

Ont., was there, washing and bandaging wounds while Mrs. Jury quietly walked among the wounded, trying to comfort them.

Canada Nearly Ready To Make Dive Bombers

OTTAWA, April 9.—(CP)—Conversion of the Canadian Car and Foundry plant at Fort William, Ont., for production of navy dive bombers, is well advanced, it was learned in official quarters here today.

Munitions Minister Howe announced in January that the company had been awarded a $60,000,000 contract for manufacture of about 1,000 Curtiss navy dive bombers which would occupy the full facilities of Fort William plant and the greater part of the company's facilities at Pointe St. Charles, Que.

It is understood here that control of the Fort William plant has nearly reached a point where manufacture of component parts of airplanes could be started. The task of tooling up the factory for output of airplanes is approaching completion.

Beef Stocks Low In Toronto Area

TORONTO, April 9.—(CP)—Butcher shops and chain stores in Toronto reported Wednesday beef stocks ranging from one-half to two-thirds below normal and a check of packing houses showed a similar situation to exist there.

Chain stores were reported rationing supplies to their branches with a resultant decrease in the quantities of beef displayed for retail consumption.

A statement by the Federal Department of Agriculture said difficulties experienced recently in maintaining adequate supplies of beef "are due to the rapidity at which, in response to an abnormally keen domestic demand at prices established six months ago, beef now is going into consumption."

The statement said beef marketings in Canada had increased in volume during the last 15 months despite near fulfillment of export quotas.

JUDGE CHARGES:

Nazi Agents In South America Obtain Fuel For Ocean Raiders

By RICARDO ALVAREZ

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 9. — (BUP) — Judge Julio Cesar de Gregorio charged today that German agents in South America have been obtaining fuel oil for Nazi sea raiders and operating an organized system of "naval espionage" against United Nations shipping.

In a report to the Uruguayan Supreme court, De Gregorio disclosed that Brazilian police had confiscated a German-made map outlining Northern Argentine and Southern Brazilian territories as "points of future German domination."

This map, he said, corroborated President Roosevelt's assertions in a speech last fall that Germany planned to seize and dominate South American countries.

The report of Gregorio's investigation of Axis subversive activities, described in detail Axis moves in the Southern Brazilian state of Rio Grande Do Sul, which has a large German population.

ADMITS ACTIVITIES

De Gregorio said a German vice-consul, Kurt Fraes, admitted he had been charged by Berlin with the responsibility of obtaining oil and fuel for German warships raiding in the Atlantic since the war's outbreak.

Fraes, a Gesman-educated Brazilian, admitted, the report said, that he had obtained a large quantity of oil for "An important refueling job," and also attempted to acquire oil stores for an inactive German ship in port at Montevideo.

De Gregorio said Fraes was aided by Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, German naval attache in Argentina, who managed to secure 5,000 drums of oil, half of which was sent to German raiders in the Atlantic.

Fraes told him, De Gregorio said, that he received instructions from Lieut. Hermann Bohny, German naval attache at Rio de Janeiro, to obtain regular information regarding movements of United Nations ships.

ESPIONAGE LINK

The report said Fraes' confession revealed Capt. Armo Lidfeldt of the German army served as the naval espionage link between Nazi naval attaches in Argentina and Brazil. Lidfeldt, now in jail in Brazil, reportedly has confessed directing commercial naval espionage through a system of secret shortwave radio stations.

The map seized by Brazilian police, De Gregorio said, was on display in a "museum" along with swastika insignias, Nazi uniforms, emblems and arms confiscated during recent police raids on Axis organizations and private homes.

The Uruguayan congressional committee, with which De Gregorio has been collaborating, warned recently of dangers involved in permitting Nazi "fifth columnists and propagandists" to enter Uruguay from southern Brazil and contiguous Argentine territories.

Cars On Hand Will Last For Two Years Yet

TORONTO, April 9—(CP)—The supply of new and used cars on the Canadian market today will last for at least two years, serving all essential purposes, if drivers use utmost caution in conserving tires and gasoline, R. B. Perrault, president of the Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada, said yesterday. He was commenting on a statement made today by J. H. Berry, motor vehicle controller.

Speaking in Ottawa, Mr. Berry said that the last civilian car left the assembly line about April 1 and there now are about 4,000 in the reserve bank from which the essential users will be supplied.

Mr. Perrault said that in addition to the 4,000 cars in the reserve "bank" mentioned by Mr. Berry, there are some 10,000 brand new cars in dealers' show rooms across Canada and many thousand used cars in excellent condition.

"The cars in the official pool cannot be sold without a special permit from the motor vehicle controller, but the other 10,000 free cars can be sold at the discretion of car dealers, who have been requested to see that all new cars are placed in the hands of those who require them for legitimate purposes," he said.

DIRECTOR SPEAKS

Selective Service Plan Will Be Carried Out By Democratic Methods

OTTAWA, April 9.—(CP)—The government's national selective service program will impose a measure of regimentation but will be applied in a democratic, Canadian way with the rights of the individual protected as far as possible, Elliott M. Little, national selective service director, said Wednesday night in an address over the CBC national network.

In his first public address since his appointment Mr. Little summarized the man power program in this sentence: "The whole purpose of selective service is to give each Canadian the job he or she can do best in this war."

Public employment offices will become increasingly important in the program, he said, asking both employers and workers to use these offices which would be increased and enlarged to aid in the selective service program.

"We are mobilizing our manpower and our womanpower, but we are doing it the Canadian way," Mr. Little said. "The government will protect the rights of the individual as far as possible.

"As additional workers are needed in war plants we'll let you know."

MANY FRONTS

Total war means a life-and-death struggle which must be fought in the factories producing weapons, in the fields growing food and on the battlefield wherever the enemy could be met.

Canada at present devoted 40 per cent of her national energy to prosecution of the war on the production front, a big increase from the 10 per cent peak of the First Great War, but still far below the 70 per cent in effect in Germany, Mr. Little said.

"As a free people we don't like the idea of regimentation but we are beginning to wake up to the fact that we must accept a measure of regimentation in Canada temporarily if we are not to have slavery forced upon us permanently," he continued.

HERE'S EXAMPLE

Clarifying the regulations on restricted industries and restricted occupations, which apply to able-bodied men between the ages of 17 and 45, Mr. Little took bookkeeping as an example.

Bookkeeping was a restricted job whether it was in a munition plant or a confectionery shop.

"This does not mean that if you are a male bookkeeper between 17 and 45 and physically fit, you must quit your work. It means that if you are between 17 and 45 and physically fit you can't take such a job if one is open unless you have a permit."

In issuing work permits for restricted occupations the selective service officers, at present local managers of the unemployment insurance commission, would use great care before issuing a permit to single men in the age groups subject to call, 21 to 30 years, but would show more leniency to married men with dependents, Mr. Little said.

TEMPORARY PERMITS

The permits would be only issued on a temporary basis and might be revoked at any time. The restrictions on employment applied only to men.

Many peacetime concerns might eventually be wholly or partially converted to munitions manufacture, and an effort would be made by planning to anticipate these conversions and provide for the transfer of employees to essential work.

We're Going To Live Plainer

Canadians, who are facing precisely the same prospect, will note with interest the statement of Mr. Donald Nelson, United States war production chief, that production of most consumer durable goods will be stopped there by the end of May. There is no use hoping that we on this side of the line will not have to put up with the like disappearance from the stores of innumerable things which go to make up the ordinary standard of living. The production policies and war policies of the two countries are pooled, and Canadians should neither expect nor wish to escape the "sound but lean civilian economy" to which our partners in the great enterprise must subject themselves.

The "facts behind the news" must be fairly well known, and they admit of no other course. As munitions plants sweep into their stride they are drawing more and more heavily on metals and numberless other materials which are already scarce, which cannot be produced quickly, some of which cannot be produced on this continent at all. And the manpower both of Canada and of the United States is being drawn into fighting forces and equipment establishments in a volume which would not permit production "as usual" of consumer goods even if materials were abundant.

Whether we like it or not, we all over this continent are going to have to live on a restricted scale, not because money is scarce, but because money can't buy many of the things to which we have been used.

The Unwilling Migrants

The chairman of the British Columbia Security Commission says plans have been made to transfer the 24,000 Japanese out of the defence zone in that province. Of this number 7,500 are to be sent to towns in the interior of the province and 5,000 more will be employed on road work there. It cannot therefore be said, as has been suggested, that British Columbia is trying to evacuate its Japanese population to the other provinces. And those who are moved out for the duration are to be returned when the war is over. What is being asked of the people in other provinces is that they tolerate the presence of approximately half the Japanese issue in Canada.

Even that is asking a good deal, but the asking is being done by British Columbia, not by the Japs. It may help to reconcile the people of communities into which these unwanted guests are sent, to remember that the alternative would much rather stay at the coast than be moved anywhere. Many of them would no doubt rather be shut up in internment camps and supported at the public expense. It is not for their pleasure or convenience they are being transplanted for a time, and are to be made to work for a living, but for the safety of Canada and the sake of the taxpayers.

However unwelcome they may be in any community, police supervision can keep transgressors from befalling other people, and it is to be supposed this supervision will be provided.

Make Room For Them

Officers who come here to train men for the Air Force are by no means the only ones who find it difficult, to the point of being almost impossible, to obtain living quarters in the city. But they have a claim to consideration beyond that of civilians. They do not come here of their own choice, but under orders. They cannot know how long they will remain; that is determined for them, and they have no alternative but to obey when they are told to move to another centre. Naturally, they want to have their families with them if married, as other men do. Of necessity they must rent houses or apartments by the month, not on long term leases.

These are facts which Edmonton house - owners and apartment - owners should take into practical consideration. Nor can it be forgotten that the future value of Edmonton property and the lives and rights of the owners hinge very directly upon the work these men are doing. Unless the enemy is shot out of the air we cannot win the war, and if we do not win the war Nazis or Fascists or Japanese will do as they please with us and our property. But if the enemy is to be beaten in the air, the beating will have to be done by men many of whom are learning to fly under the instruction of the officers who now complain that they cannot find places to lay their heads in Edmonton.

Making room for an air instructor and his family is, or ought to be, something more than a business transaction by which to obtain the greatest possible number of dollars. It is also a matter of accommodating a man who is teaching air-fighters how to protect the landlord and his property and all that he holds dear.

Keep The War Oversea

If the Axis powers are not defeated overseas, the struggle will be carried to this hemisphere, and the fight will have to be made, under terribly adverse conditions, on the soil of Canada and the United States. This was the basis of Prime Minister King's radio appeal to the voters to vote "yea" when the plebiscite is taken on April 27th, by which the Government is asking to be given a free hand in carrying on the war. For that reason, if there were no other, Canada was justified in sending an army overseas, and is bound to assist its Allies to the limit of its ability on any or every front.

This fact, for it is a fact, is one which every Canadian ought to keep steadily in mind. There are no territorial limits to the Axis plans. Hitler means to dominate "every human being and every mile of the earth's surface," in the words of President Roosevelt. He could not do this without destroying the United States, and Canada is the logical base from which he and his Japanese associate would launch their attack. It is therefore a matter of enlightened self-interest that Canadian forces should be sent wherever they may be needed to prevent the aggressors attaining mastery of the other continents and thus clearing the way for an assault upon this last fortress of freedom.

The issue we now are facing has nothing to do with race or other side considerations. If we want to make sure that Canada will remain Canada, help must be given wherever it is needed to those who are fighting our enemies. A "yes" vote at the plebiscite will be a vote to keep the war away from our shores. That, surely, is something every Canadian wants to do.

V

Canadians who have contributed to the Queen's Fund for air raid victims have the satisfaction of knowing that their givings have amounted in the first year to more than one million dollars. A million dollars will do a lot to give comfort and hope to people in Britain who have been deprived of their homes, and many of them injured, by the enemy raiders. But it would take scores or hundreds of millions to meet the need and discharge the claims of humanity. The Fund is still open and contributions are earnestly solicited.

V

A Trans-Atlantic pilot was called on the carpet because he flew a bomber to Britain in 400 minutes. Not so long ago it was thought quite wonderful that a heavy plane should be able to make the trip in a single hop, but now there is regulation against doing it too quickly, lest the motors be damaged. This particular pilot explained that he got across so soon because he was wafted by a favoring gale, and proved it by circling about over the airfield for two hours because he had too much gasoline left to make a safe landing. The best warplanes of the 1940 models are now obsolete.

V

Speaking in Winnipeg about the curious unwillingness of men to join the reserve units, Col. Ralston said "Unless their enlistment is voluntary, they will soon find themselves in the position of joining the army by command instead of choice." This is not in any sense a threat. It is simply a straight-forward statement of what will have to happen. Canada's defence forces cannot be left with half-filled ranks, nor with too few units. It would look better, and it would be better, if the needed reinforcements were forthcoming without compulsion. But, one way or the other, they must be obtained.

Looking Backward

From The Bulletin Files

1892 — 50 Years Ago

Monday's train brought a large number of French-Canadians, chiefly destined for the colony being settled in rear of St. Albert, near Egg Lake, by Rev. Morin, who accompanied them. There were 103 persons in the party, including many women and children.

Rev. George W. Dean of Calgary delivered a lecture on "The land we live in," in the Methodist church on Monday evening. Rev. C. A. Procunier presided.

C.P.R. lands in the Edmonton district will be sold by auction at Edmonton on May 3rd.

A. Ewing has been awarded the contract for building a bridge across the Old Man's creek in the Clover Bar settlement.

1902 — 40 Years Ago

Seeding is general throughout this district.

The British war office has accepted Canada's offer of a further force of 2,000 mounted infantry for service in South Africa.

A bicycle thief was ordered to be whipped by a Winnipeg magistrate.

The Prince of Wales has been asked to assist in the dedication of the New York chamber of commerce.

1912 — 30 Years Ago

Swatow, China: Marines have been landed from United States, British and Japanese warships to guard the legations.

London: The bill to set up a government in Ireland is reported to provide for both lower and upper houses and to contain guarantees for the minorities in Ulster and southern Ireland.

Memphis: Levees have given way at several points along the lower Mississippi, hundreds of square miles of country are under water, and thousands of men are employed in rebuilding the dikes. Enormous property damage has resulted, with some loss of life.

1922 — 20 Years Ago

London: The Privy Council allowed the appeal in the case of the King versus Nat Bell Liquors Ltd.

The library board asked the city council to submit a by-law for $37,000, part cost of the library building to cost $150,000. The Carnegie fund will provide the balance.

London: British Black and Tans again on duty at Dublin Castle, owing to the strained relations between the provisional government and the republicans.

Geneva: On the eve of the conference it is apparent that all other countries are courting Russia. The entry of the Soviet into the League is the problem of the gathering.

1932 — 10 Years Ago

St. John's, Nfld.: Defying unemployed demonstrators who threatened to throw him into the harbor, Premier Sir Richard Squires has refused to resign.

Worcester, Mass.: Captain Frank Hawks, speed flier, was seriously but not critically injured when his plane crashed into a stone wall.

Japanese Chance

Strength of Nations Is Frequently Cause of Surprise

By CHARLES HERBERT HUESTIS

Persons who were amazed at the strength of the Russian resistance to the German hordes and who took Colonel Lindbergh's account of Russian air strength at its face value, would have been better informed had they read Max Werner's book, "The Military Strength of the Powers," which was published the year before the war began.

Whether this state of mind—which neither the British, French nor American nations of opinion did anything to discourage—was due to conservatism of thought, prejudice against Russia, or just plumb ignorance, I do not know.

We all remember the contempt with which the Russian army was mentioned during the Russo-Finnish war. Today it is recognized that the defeat of Finland, from a military point of view, was one of the great achievements of modern military history. Whether or not the high commands of the democracies knew the facts as to Russia's strength, there were numbers of civilian authorities who would have agreed with the "Revue des Deux Mondes" when it said in 1938 that "the military strength of the Soviet Union represents a factor of decisive importance in the power relations of Europe" a statement abundantly substantiated by recent events.

Red Army

Werner had no doubts as to whether or not Russia would be able to give a good account of herself when the time came. He wrote, in the above mentioned book:

"The only army in Europe which can be compared with the German army is the Red army." Again he said: "It is no secret that the Red general staff has adopted everything it considers of value in traditional German strategy."

He also quotes German military authorities and comparative figures to show how superior Russia was to Germany in many war potentials. And he severely criticises Great Britain because of her abhorrence of communism made her reject a military alliance with Germany and leaned on France instead—to her present undoing.

Japan's Power

Since Werner's estimate of Russia has proved to be correct, it is interesting to read what he had to say of Japan's military strength and powers of endurance—interesting and cheering to, in these days.

That Japan belongs to the group of economically weak—the "have not"—powers is well known. What military strength she has in that particular is due in great part to the good offices of her present enemies, all of whom made good money supplying her deficiencies in oil, scrap iron, machine tools and many other necessities of war. Werner described the technical weakness of Japan's land and air arms and said her strategy was bound to be offensive.

She has accepted, writes Werner, the latest ideas of Germany concerning totalitarian warfare and the German idea of victory by a sudden and decisive rush. Again he says: "It is no secret that Japan's war plan envisages the launching of a sudden and unexpected attack on the aerodromes of the Red army in the Far East. (It seemed to Werner that Russia was likely to be Japan's first objective). In the long-drawn out war Japan's weakness has been shown in what she calls the "China incident," where her opponent was militarily much weaker than she.

First Objective

Had Japan chosen Russia as her first objective it is probable that Professor E. Guyot's prophecy made after a visit to Japan in 1936, would be in process of fulfilment. He wrote: "In the event of a war between Japan and the Soviet Union, Japan will be defeated and she will be very rapidly defeated at that."

Her spectacular victories in Malay and the Dutch East Indies have been due to the criminal unpreparedness and complacency of the democratic powers and her daring blitzkrieg. The Dutch alone were ready but they were too weak in men and material. As Werner puts it in a recent article: "What has happened is that the Japanese air force and the Japanese army operated boldly and with the benefit of the surprise element against any power which had neglected air and land forces in the Pacific." As far back as 1924 Hector Bywater, the British Naval authority, warned England of her fatal weakness in the Far East.

"Unpalatable though it may be," he wrote, "the truth is that at the present time we are not in a position to defend our widespread and priceless interests in the Far East."

Achievements

In spite of her amazing achievements Japan now stands in a very perilous position. Separated by thousands of miles from her source of supply—her new sources cannot be made use of for months — with China standing strong and with the ever-increasing menace of the American eagle and the Russian bear, her military authorities must have many headaches.

She has bitten off a very large mouthful which she must masticate and finally digest, writes Werner, or may add stomach-ache to her misery. This is not mere wishful thinking if we judge Werner's estimate. He wrote in 1936: "The dominance of Japan in Eastern Asia is now based on military standpoint, on a fiction of superiority. . . . A power really weak will not be able to maintain for long its hegemony over half the Asiatic continent."

Without discounting in any way the cleverness of her strategy and the boldness of its application, it may be said that her victories have been due in great part to the "too-little-and-too-late" conduct of the democratic powers.

It will without doubt take some time to dislodge her from her present holdings and she is fairly weak in resources and has no way of increasing them.

Smash Huns Now

Russians Are Confident of Victory Sooner or Later

BY PHILIP JORDAN IN THE LONDON NEWS CHRONICLE

Freed at last from the Russian censorship, heroes reaffirm every conviction of ultimate victory that for the last six months I have been sending regularly from either Moscow or Kuibishev.

Those blinded by prejudice against the Soviet way of life must have frequently imagined that the consistently optimistic reports sent home by me were tinged with imposed propaganda, even though history has already justified all the predictions made.

I believe with absolute conviction that the heroic armies are going to smash the German armies this year, whether or not aid is forthcoming in the nature of a Continental adventure by the British fighting forces. To "climb out on a limb" is an invitation to disaster, but I none the less repeat myself—I am absolutely convinced, from all I have seen and from all the small pieces of information I have been able to gather in a country where secrecy is the main fetish, that Russia will win victory over Germany this year.

Divided

Civil and military authorities are divided as to when, precisely, victory will come. The former believe that the issue of a sustained political warfare a state of affairs in Germany is being produced which will make it impossible for Hitler to stage a Spring offensive on a scale that would make it worth his while.

They expect that complete victory is possible in the Spring.

I am absolutely convinced they are wrong. So are their military leaders (which, after all, is what matters), who do not believe that victory can be achieved before Autumn.

The more sober-minded of them—and now I come to think of it I have yet to meet a Russian military leader who is not sober-minded—believe that Hitler is preparing a blow for them in the Spring on a scale greater even than that which he delivered from October 2 onwards until December 6, when the Russians brought into play Frunze's doctrine of "strategic reserves" and began a successful offensive that continues to this day. (Frunze being the Russian Clausewitz.)

Hitler hurled 51 fully equipped divisions on Moscow; it is believed now in Russia that when Spring comes he will throw in an even greater number.

They realize also that what material losses Hitler suffered in the first seven months of the campaign he can more than make good during the Winter. What he cannot replace are all the highly trained junior officers and N.C.O.'s who have been killed.

Quick to Learn

But, quick to learn and quicker even to adapt themselves to circumstances Russia's military leaders are convinced that they have already profited by mistakes they made in the opening months of the war and that whatever may be the force of the blow, they can meet it.

The Russian staff, therefore, are convinced that, whatever may be the force of the blow being prepared for them at this hour in the factories, behind walls and barracks and on the training grounds of occupied Europe, they can meet it.

They are not boastful. Many think that once more it may be necessary to retreat, to surrender all the ground lost in the first six months. And in the meantime "strategic reserves" are being built up in quantities that, were the figure known, might hardly be believed.

Outside a limited circle—probably not more than 50 men in the world—no one knows Russia's industrial capacity to the possible war output. My opinion is that Russia's industrial potential is infinitely greater than any foreigner supposes.

Supreme Effort

Since it is believed that after one more supreme effort Hitler will be unable even to stage any offensive or appreciable menace, the Russians, when they have countered what is coming in the Spring, will once more pass to the offensive. And this time in greater numbers and under more advantageous conditions, pouring in fresh highly trained men intent on revenging themselves for all that the Germans have done to their country and their people.

Next time, what so far has been a retreat will, it is believed, become a rout, which the German withdrawal from Moscow could not be called.

The War To Date

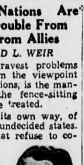

Fence-Sitting Is Dangerous

Undecided Nations Are Due For Trouble From Axis or From Allies

By HAROLD L. WEIR

One of the gravest problems of this war, from the viewpoint of the Allied Nations, is the manner in which the fence-sitting nations are treated.

The Axis has its own way, of course, with the undecided states. Those nations that refuse to cooperate fully with the Axis speedily get the full weight of the Axis mailed fist.

Harold L. Weir

But, on our side, we are tied up firmly to the principle of national self-determination, to the declaration that every sovereign state must be perfectly free to choose its own course.

Matters are coming to the point, however, where this principle is apparently beginning to conflict sharply with another one, namely, the principle that there can be no neutrals in this war.

This latter fact is established, not by any defiant and threatening ultimatum of our own, but by the very nature of the conflict itself.

National Issues

Purely personal and national issues have no longer anything to do with this war. The line of conflict has been sharply drawn between two philosophies of life, so broad as to permit of the existence of no third or intermediate philosophy, within which one or other of these categories every nation must find its national policy.

Self - determination, therefore, and freedom of choice are limited to either the Axis way of life or the democratic way of life.

Some of those nations, in South America, for instance, which are inclined to resent Allied pressure urging them to make an early decision, have attempted to point out that this pressure is a violation of the Allied principle that every nation should be free to make its own choice.

This attempt arises out of a grave misunderstanding of the nature of freedom.

A man may enjoy perfect freedom, in the moral sense, and yet that freedom does not permit him to do the impossible. He is not free to walk on water, or eat poison or fly without wings.

Freedom, in its very nature, is always qualified. Thus, there is no actual curtailment of any neutral's freedom in the assertion that the fate of the war has now taken precludes any possibility of neutrality.

No Neutrality

There can be no neutrality today. And both Britain and the United States, in their dealings with hesitant nations, should openly and forcefully postulate that fact.

They should make it very clear that no curtailment of intrinsic freedom of action is implied in the demand that so-called "neutrals" declare themselves either for us or against us.

Particularly should Vichy be treated to a strong dose of this reasoning.

Present appeasement methods are both obsolete and foolish. They are obsolete because Vichy's neutrality is a specious and unnatural thing. They are foolish because they permit Vichy to maintain in Martinique a base which everyone knows is supplying and outfitting those German submarines which raid our shipping in the Atlantic.

Other Fence-Sitters

Important, just now, among the other fence-sitters is Turkey which proposes to wait until the last minute and then flop over on the winning side.

However, the dispensers of lend-lease benefits evidently still consider Turkey an attractive investment. The receipt of additional American war materials by Turkey was reported this week.

There is, of course, no way of telling who will be seduced whom in Turkey until Hitler forces a showdown in connection with his drive for Middle Eastern oil and strategically situated territory.

If the Turkish generals resist an Axis attempt to go through the Dardanelles or landwise across Turkey, we shall know that our faith was not misplaced.

Our strategy and ethics, thus far, have not permitted the forcing of the iron hand in the our favor —a consideration appreciated by the hard-boiled Turks who act accordingly.

This mode of operations is not far short of suicidal.

We should deal with the fence-sitters as enemies—as, indeed, they are until they make some move positively in our favor.

One Bomber An Hour

Detroit Is Converted to War Purpose in Factories

FROM THE MAGAZINE "TIME".

A year ago Willow Run was a lazy little creek west of Detroit, surrounded by woodlands, by a few farmhouses, a few country schools. Today Willow Run is the most enormous room in the history of man: more than a half-mile long, nearly a quarter of a mile wide. In this great room errands are run by automobile; through the flash of moving machinery and the dust of construction, no man can see from one end to the other.

The plant contains 25,000 tons of structural steel. By Summer, 70,000 men will work in this room; by December, 90,000. In planning the building, Ford Motor Co.'s drafting room used five miles of blueprint paper a day, seven days a week, for six months.

In this enormous workroom Ford hopes eventually to turn out a four-motored Consolidated bomber every hour. The raw materials will go in at one end; at the other will emerge the 30-ton machines, coughing with life.

The bombers will be borne from half-mile assembly lines so fast that Ford will not try to store them. The deadly infants will be tanked on a great new airfield, stretching out from the assembly end of the plant, with enough white concrete runways to make a highway 22 miles long. From those runways the newborn bombers will make their test flights then take off for service.

Send Tanks

Detroit has other enormous rooms, and out of them armies will roll and fleets will fly. Endlessly the lines will send tanks, jeeps, motorcycles, guns, cannon, airtorpedoes, armored cars. Ford's River Rouge plant, where Ford steamships dump coal and iron ore and limestone to be magicked into steel and glass and machinery, has turned its two square miles of self-contained industrial empire to the tools of war.

Chrysler already has three assembly lines of olive-drab tanks moving through its tank arsenal (soon it hopes to ship a trainload of tanks a day). Guns, shells and motors are at last in mass production. General Motors, once biggest of all automakers, is already producing arms of all kinds at the rate of a billion dollars a year. Packard and Studebaker are making airplane engines; Hudson makes anti-aircraft guns; Nash is at work on engines and propellers.

Flood of Machines

Once Detroit's conversion to war is complete, when the lines are all moving with the precision of a finely tuned automobile, that Detroit borrowed from the morning stars, they will pour out such a flood of war machines as no man has ever imagined. The onetime auto industry will employ a million men and women, twice as many as it ever did, will make a billion dollars' worth of armaments a month. If Armageddon is to be decided in Detroit, Armageddon is won.

Production alone cannot win the war. Airplanes and tanks are only war's tools; they must be put to work, used audaciously by great commanders and skillful soldiers. The nation is winning the Battle of Detroit. But the war cannot be won in Detroit alone, or even by production alone.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Utility Wasters

Editor, Bulletin: In these times when everything is being done to save I would like to say a few words to some of our inconsiderate people who rent rooms and suites but do not get a bill every month for light, water and heat (gas) and henceforth think that these things are free to everyone.

I like many others renting suites at very reasonable prices, certainly do hate waste.

As my husband is overseas my self, children and myself have crowded in two rooms so that I could rent the three rooms upstairs to help me out with my taxes.

Now after two months I've found out as others have that this extra doesn't pay for much more than the renter's waste. What I'm getting at is why do such people as these think they have to have every light on in the house and gas on full day and night and when it gets too warm open all doors and windows?

It's too late now to do anything as I can't raise the rent nor put them out, but how about a little consideration?

WASTE-HATER.

BIRMINGHAM POST

Passengers on a Birmingham bus enjoyed this little incident the other day. A very new and obviously "proud - of - his - one - pip" Second Lieutenant was smoking a cigarette, when he was accosted by a workman, who spoke with the easy familiarity of this nearly matchless age: "Give us a light, mate."

The young officer, apparently huffed at being termed "mate", made no reply, but gazed stonily ahead. There followed several seconds of silence. Then the workman, in louder tones, again demanded: "Give us a light, mate."

The stony silence continued. At this point the conductor came along to collect fares, and to him the workman spoke in clarion tones: "Give us a light, mate. This 'ere bloodier General, he spik no English!"

Alberta District News In Brief

Jap Labor Urged For New Highway

RED DEER—Feeling that Japanese labor might be used on the project, members of the Rocky Mountain House board of trade are eager to have the proposed David Thompson highway, completed. To discuss the matter they are holding a joint banquet with the Red Deer board of trade on April 10 at the Buffalo hotel.

It is expected that Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, as well as F. D. Shaw, M.P. for Red Deer, and A. J. Hooke, M.L.A., Rocky Mountain House, will be special guests at the banquet.

Gleaned From Rural News

KILLAM—Church services were well attended on Easter Sunday. Miss Maida Whybrew and Vernon Redlin became members of the United church. . . . Mrs. H. Roberts is attending the I.O.D.E. convention in Edmonton. . . . Mr and Mrs. Arthur Hoefling, formerly of Alliance, have taken up residence here.

CLIVE—Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. G. Wallers have returned to Clive after a short visit to Calgary. . . . Mrs. Kemp, Edmonton, was a recent visitor with her sister, Mrs. D. E. Westling. While in Clive she was a guest at the wedding of the former Miss L. Harrow. . . . Jack Wilson of Coutts, Douglas Wilson and Ralph Heald of Edmonton, and Miss Elaine Duffy of Lacombe, were the guests of their parents over the Easter holidays.

Red Deer School Division Reaches Salary Agreement

RED DEER—After negotiations between the board of Red Deer school division and representatives of the teachers in the division, a salary schedule has been approved by the board.

Under the schedule, no teacher will be paid less than $840 after September, 1942. Teachers now receiving $840 will be raised $25 a year beginning September 1, 1942, and all other teachers will be raised $35 a year up to a maximum of $1,150. Annual increments will be paid after three years' service of $25 up to the sixth year, and of $35 up to the 12th year up to the maximum. Principals will be allowed an extra $75 per room, and $100 will be allowed for a university degree used in the classroom; $50 per year will be allowed teachers holding special certificates in household economics or general shop who are teaching these specialties.

At the last meeting of the board there was a general discussion of the question with J. W. Barnett and Daniels of the Alberta Teachers' Association. Later in the day, L. A. Thurber, divisional superintendent, and Trustee A. Haywood, for the board, met the association representatives and after further discussion an agreement was reached.

Red Deer Has Record Issue Car Licenses

RED DEER—Up to the end of March, Sheriff M. Millard and his staff at the court house had issued 1,500 car and truck licenses, the largest number ever issued here prior to April 1. There were 1,150 car and 350 truck licenses. While 1,500 plates were taken out, only 978 motorists had applied for gasoline rationing books up to April 1.

Sunday Gas Sale Allowed By Call

WHITECOURT—Called suddenly to Calgary upon hearing of the death of their daughter Margaret, 16, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibson were allowed special privileges for purchase of gasoline on Sunday by Edmonton city police recently.

Obliged to take the midnight train from Edmonton to Calgary, they were driven to Edmonton by L. H. Baxter who was allowed to purchase sufficient fuel for the round trip.

Interment of their daughter will take place in the family plot in Calgary. Besides her parents, she leaves three brothers, Milton of Calgary, Robert on active service and Ralph at home.

City Airman Aids Recent Paris Raid

Active participation in recent raids over Paris was described by Sgt. Pilot Thomas Templeman, in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Templeman, 1726 107 street.

The youthful pilot wrote of the undying faith and courage of the Parisians, who in spite of close scrutiny, flashed a huge illumined "V" up at the R.A.F. bombers approaching Paris.

He also wrote of scoring direct hits and leaving the place in ruins. "We crossed Paris three times at a height of 1,000 feet and it was a beautiful sight," he stated.

As a footnote he mentioned that they had just returned after taking part in the attack on the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen.

Winterburn Meet Considers Change

Proposed formation of a Taxpayers' Protective Association to protect the interests of the former Spruce Grove municipality, now fused with the Inga and Tomahawk districts into an enlarged municipality, was discussed by taxpayers in the Winterburn hall Wednesday.

No action was taken on the proposal at the meeting at which Herbert Ball was chairman and which about 50 attended.

It was pointed out by speakers that, as a result of the amalgamation, there was a possibility taxes might be raised to meet the costs of the enlarged municipality.

There was a suggestion made that the question be placed before the Alberta section of the United Farmers of Canada for some action, but no decision was made on this proposal.

C. G. Dominy Given New Position With Northern Railways

Charles G. Dominy, for several years supervisor of the express and telegraph department of the Northern Alberta Railway Company, has been promoted to the newly created position of assistant superintendent of the company, J. M. MacArthur, general manager, announced Thursday.

Mr. Dominy will have his headquarters at McLennan. Creation of the position of assistant superintendent was found necessary due to the substantial increase in traffic business in Northern Alberta in recent months, Mr. MacArthur stated.

AUSTRALIA'S WATCHDOG

Sleepy Port Of Darwin Is Turned Into Powerful Military Garrison

DARWIN, Australia, April 9. — (BUP) — The sleepy little harbor village that was Darwin has become a powerful military garrison, Allied watchdog of Australia's northeast coast, a bristling city of policemen without civilians, courts without crime and bars without beer.

Darwin is in the front line now, standing defiantly against the Japanese tide of aggression, no man's land behind it. After nearly two months of Japanese air raids, Darwin now is completely stripped for action.

STREETS ARE SILENT

Wreckage in the harbor remains as grim monuments to the first Japanese air raids on Feb. 19. Otherwise the damage is confined to a few smashed wooden buildings and bomb scars which from the air look like flea bites surrounded by rings of discoloration.

Streets are silent. Ships are shuttered. Nothing is bought and sold.

In the tropical heat the soldiers wear shorts, without shirts. The officers wear shirts, but compromise with the heat by abandoning neckties.

At an opportune moment one looks up to see a Japanese bomber explode in the air, a victim of Australian anti-aircraft fire, and its fragments sift down over the countryside as allied fighters pursue other members of the prowling squadron and shoot them down.

DUTCHMEN'S ESCAPE

Three Dutchmen arrived in Darwin last Saturday to tell their tale of a sitting escape from Java. After the capitulation of the main resistance there and a stormy voyage in a 70-ton lugger, they reached Bathurst island north of Darwin and signalled an Australian vessel.

Their spokesman said he had obtained the lugger in Java and kept it quiet with "emergencies." When the big one came, two soldiers asked him to get them out of the island. They managed to escape and headed for Darwin.

They had to use a hand pump all the way and after six days they stopped for repairs. They lived mostly on rice. At Bathurst they learned the glad tidings that Darwin still was very much in Australian hands."

Recalls Former Visit To City

In Edmonton for the first time in 44 years, Arthur Einboden arrived here for a visit of a few days prior to his departure for Hamilton, B.C. He was last here in 1898, enroute with 10 other Toronto young men for Yukon in search of gold. He described some of the city's utilities at that time such as the lift then used on McDougall hill and the ferry across the river.

"Every time I hear of Edmonton now, I think of that journey from Strathcona to here by wagon, sleigh, horse, boat and dog team", the sourdough remarked.

He is a retired Hamilton where he is still engaged in ranching.

Through The Mill

To swing at anyone at any time is not just the right thing to do. But to swing at a police officer and connect, is infinitely wrong. And to do such a thing at a time when the officer was attempting to do one a favor, just simply was "no dice" with the magistrate.

That was the plight of Robert St. Arneault. He was picked up in a Calgary cafe after police responded to a complaint about a husky soldier being a shade too rowdy for the comfort of the guests.

St. Arneault apparently resented the interference on the part of the law. He didn't even appreciate the kind gesture of giving him a ride back to barracks instead of the cells.

His "thank you" to the officer as he was let out of the police car was a stiff right to the officer's jaw. Robert was taken back to the cells.

He appeared before the cadi Wednesday. The story was told. Every sentence of the police officer's tale convinced the cadi that he was entirely in the wrong. For the law, no appreciation for what the law was attempting to do for him, and certainly no respect for his uniform.

The magistrate read a list of previous charges and convictions. He got six months with hard labor.

Caucus Discusses Coming Plebiscite

The forthcoming manpower plebiscite was one of the subjects discussed at Wednesday's caucus meeting of the Social Credit-New Democracy members of the house of commons and legislative buildings, according to J. H. Blackmore, M.P., Lethbridge, house leader for the group.

It was reported that a statement on the discussions would likely be issued during sessions of the caucus Thursday.

CHAMPIONS

Weiller And Williams Entries Sweep Honors In Light Horse Class

Harsongower, two-year-old bay colt, by the imported Irish-bred Craigangower, out of Janis Whittier, owned by Messrs. Weiller and Williams, won the thoroughbred stallion class championship at the Edmonton Exhibition Association's Spring Show.

The same exhibitors took the mare championship with Lady Barber, a rather old mare by Craigangower out of Lobelia Ellsworth. Reserve championship in the stallion classes went to Homsater, and in the mare class to Withernsgower, both owned by Messrs. Weiller and Williams.

The stallion was awarded by the Hunters' Improvement and National Light Horse Breeding Society of London, England, was won also by Messrs. Weiller and Williams' Homsongower.

GLOVER WINNER

The popular thoroughbred horse breeder J. S. Glover, Edmonton, won the R. Jones Agger challenge trophy for the best progeny sired by a thoroughbred horse from a cold-blooded mare, with Somerset.

Star Spangonguer, by Star Pixley, Penhold, was judged the best saddle horse at the show, winning the Hudson's Bay challenge, and also taking the first prize in the novice mare or gelding class; and also the first prize in the open saddle class.

BEST HUNTER

The Pixley challenge cup, for the best hunter in the show, was won by Mr. Glover's Somerset, which also won the heavy weight hunter class. Star Spangonguer won the novice and light weight hunter classes, with Wings from the Briercrest Stables, Edmonton, winning first prize in the pony class.

Other exhibits from the Brierecrest stables figured prominently in the winning lists, and were remarkably fitted for the show ring by Mrs. W. Greaves.

Complete results in the thoroughbred and hunter classes follow:

Looking them Over

by JACK KELLY

SO far as Edmonton's rank and file of hockey folk are concerned, the fact that Portage La Prairie was able to beat our Maple Leafs by only 6-4 last night in the second game of the western Canada junior hockey championship is almost as consoling as a victory.

It proves that the Leafs are at least in the same league as the Portage kids—a fact about which there was considerable doubt after that 13-3 pasting the Maple Leafs took in the opening game of the series.

There's golf in the air these days, even if there are mighty few balls in your possession, and we might as well get this hockey business out of the way as quickly as possible—ring the curtain down and get on with more comfortable and cheering sports.

It seems almost a certainty that you'll see no more senior hockey until after the war—at least around the west. The rapidly increasing pressure of our war effort has finally caught up with senior hockey and knocked it for a loop. There is also a likelihood that the National Hockey League is now completing its last full season until peace comes.

The intermediates may attempt to struggle along, but receipts this past season have been very discouraging at most points in the west while the shortage of players has been even more disheartening. Travel restrictions in the form of tire and gas shortages also hit the intermediates particularly hard since motor cars handle most of the transportation in this division.

If the west is going to have any hockey next season, it looks as if the juniors will have to supply it all—a situation that will be strictly correct for times such as these.

Another Old-Timer On Way Out

AT last the wily coyote, that drifting shadow of the prairies and parklands, has a friend at court. Yesterday E. Raymond Hall of the University of California told the seventh North American Wildlife conference in Toronto that the coyote, fox and mountain lion were more maligned than they deserved.

Hall declared that by ruthlessly exterminating these so-called "pests," Canadians and Americans were throwing wildlife out of balance. He particularly urged that if these animals were to be killed that the killing be done when their fur was prime and could be put to good use.

Personally I'll say a good word for the coyote too. He's a devil around chickens and turkeys, but still I don't believe he does anything like the damage that magpies and crows do by snatching eggs and young chicks.

But that isn't my real reason for saying a word in defence of the wily coyote. The truth is I'm getting mighty lonesome to hear two or three of them howling again at night. It's a hang-over from boyhood days on the ranch—like a city-raised fellow hankering for the roar of traffic when he's out in the bush country.

The coyote is getting mighty scarce in most parts of Alberta now and his howl has gone with the other sounds of the old west—creaking wagon wheels, the cloppety-clop of loping saddle horses and Indian singing in the dusk as he headed for his camp, the bawling of cattle and cracking of blacksnakes as a big herd was drifted to market—yes, even the cussing isn't what it used to be.

Down at Rocky Mountain House there is a real old-timer who'll know this language I've been talking—Henry Stelfox, who has the distinction of having served as an Alberta game guardian longer than any other man—ever since 1907.

Henry is reported to have a plan to establish a buffalo hunting preserve back in a valley west of Rocky, stocking it with some of the surplus buffalo killed each fall on the Elk Island preserve. It sounds like a mighty interesting idea, but I can't see how he plans to get much thrill into stalking buffalo with modern rifles. Let me know more about it, Henry.

Toronto Leafs Not Out Yet

Wings Have Number "13" Hurdle To Negotiate Tonight

DETROIT, April 9—(AP)—The eminently successful Detroit Red Wings returned Wednesday to home ice where today they resume their best-of-seven game series with the twice-beaten Toronto Maple Leafs for the historic Stanley Cup, symbol of hockey's world championship.

In familiar surroundings the upstart Detroit club, fifth-place finisher in the regular National Hockey League season, hope to close out the series here with victories today and Sunday.

If the series is extended, the fifth game will be played at Toronto next Tuesday, the sixth game here April 16 and the seventh at Toronto April 18.

There is no talk of another trip to Toronto among manager Jack Adams and his crew. Over three-month stretch Detroit has been unbeaten in 12 home games, so the Red Wings seemingly hold all the trump cards over Toronto.

With all seats in Olympia stadium sold several days ago for both Thursday and Sunday games, a record crowd of nearly 14,000 is expected today.

With such high scorers as Gordon Drillon, Syl Apps and Sweeney Schriner still supporting Johnny Mowers, Detroit's sophomore goalie, the Leafs can not be counted out of the picture. Yet the principal Toronto objective appears to be the stopping of Don Grosso, 183-pound centre, who bagged a pair of goals in each of the first two games.

Grosso now has eight goals for the league playoffs to match the modern record set by Cecil Dillon of New York Rangers in 1933. He needs one more goal to tie and two more to surpass the record held by Clarence (Hebe) Dye of Toronto St. Patricks, hero of his team's 1922 cup triumph.

With 11 points Grosso also is near the three-year-old playoff scoring record of 14 points by Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins.

Detroit is shooting for its first cup since its double triumph in 1936 and 1937. Toronto, always a top contender in the regular season, hasn't gained possession of the trophy since 1932.

Urges Reciprocal Basis For Racing U.S. And Canada

TORONTO, April 9.—(CP)—Humphrey S. Finney, field secretary of the Maryland Breeders Association and secretary of the National Breeders Committee of the United States said in an address here Wednesday night that horse racing and thoroughbred breeding interests should unite to assist the government and carry on racing in Canada during the war.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Thoroughbred Breeders Association of Ontario, Mr. Finney said that a united front was needed. United States racing interests were united and with racing interests in both countries co-operating with agriculture to give financial assistance to fairs, the confidence of farmers had been won.

He urged the T.B.A. to affiliate with the National Breeders Committee and said such a move would prove beneficial now and in the future by placing racing in Canada and in the United States on a reciprocal basis.

One of the ills of racing—a too rapid increase in the number of thoroughbreds each year—would be corrected because of the war. Reduction of breeding, probably mainly among lesser-known stallions, would eliminate much poor stock and would weed cheap horses from racing, he said.

Gloria Nord . . . Whiz On Wheels

Says Spins Harder On Wheels

Gloria Nord Follows Henie Pattern Using Roller Skates

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, April 9.—(NEA)—Gloria Nordskog was born and raised in Hollywood, and is headed back there as a full-fledged star in a brand new field—a roller skating revue. Only 19, as pretty as a picture and cute as a bug in a rug, Gloria Nord—she dropped the "skog" for stage purposes—has been on wheels since she was 15. She was a professional from the start.

Harold Steinman saw little Miss Nord while promoting an ice pageant on the Pacific coast three years ago, kept her in mind, and the big part was hers when he conceived "Skating Vanities of 1942." Miss Nord at once became "the Sonja Henie on wheels."

At first it was feared that the noise of the skates would ruin a roller revue, but Steinman got away from that with a presswood floor and precision wooden wheels.

"While there are 20 roller skaters on one ice skater," explains Miss Nord, "it is much harder to get a chorus on wheels than on blades. It is more difficult to dance and do tricks on rollers."

ROLLER SKATER HAS TO MAKE COMPLETE CIRCLE

"You can't spin on the centre of the rocker part of the blades as you can on ice. "You have to make a complete circle, and that requires a greater degree of balance.

"I believe our show is—or could be made—more entertaining than any ice show for the very good reason that roller skaters can do more with their feet. For instance, our entire chorus does a tap dance."

Miss Nord stands 5 feet 2½ inches, weighs 115 pounds. Of Norwegian, English and French descent, she has bright blue eyes, a pert nose and golden hair.

"The hair is a bottle job," she smiles. "It's really red."

Miss Nord grew up with children of picture people, graduated from Miss Long's professional school on Hollywood Boulevard. This school is for stage kids.

Miss Nord's father, Andre Nordskog, was a concert singer. She is the youngest of five children. A sister designed artificial flowers for a movie studio, another sang in California night clubs, a third organized an all-girls' orchestra.

VISITING ROLLER BOWL CHANGES GLORIA'S PLANS

As a youngster, Gloria studied dancing. At 15 she was an established child entertainer—her good Broadway musical comedy via the screen.

The change in Gloria's ambition and life work came when Sid Grauman, the famous southern California motion picture theater magnate, opened the large Hollywood Roller Bowl. Three weeks later, Gloria was giving exhibitions.

With Gloria Nord, "Skating Vanities of 1942" has been a success, and the principle is looking forward to her first appearance at Madison Square Garden, June 3.

Miss Nord wants a picture career, of course, but first would like to make "Skating Vanities of 1942" so popular that some studio will make a picture of it as a unit.

She's that appreciative of what the sport, Harold Steinman and the cast have done for her.

You like little Miss Nord for saying: "The sport, Mr. Steinman and the people in his show gave me my big chance."

Gloria Nord is going a long way on roller skates.

Expect 3,000 For Playoff Game At Regina Tonight

REGINA, April 9.—(CP)—A crowd of 3,000 or more is forecast for tonight when Kimberley Dynamiters and Port Arthur Bearcats resume their Allan Cup semi-final series on Regina ice.

Dynamiters took the first game at Calgary 2-1 and after today's tussle the teams move on to Port Arthur to complete the best-of-five round.

Always popular with Regina fans, the Bearcats may attract a larger crowd than expected although ticket sales were only fair on the eve of the game. Dynamiters bring playing-coach Ralph Redding, who played for Regina's junior champions in 1930, Lyall Swaney and Sully Sullivan who were also stars on Regina teams before moving to Kimberley.

The clubs arrive in the morning from Calgary.

This will be the last game of the season in the Regina rink which last spring did not close until May 2, when the last Allan Cup game was played. It was the final game in hockey anywhere on the continent for the season and was played during a lashing rainstorm.

Vancouver Girls Turn In 48-34 Win Against Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, April 9—(CP)—A driving finish, in which they outscored Winnipeg Altomahs by nine points in the fourth quarter, carried Vancouver Hedlunds to their second straight victory in the western Canada senior women's basketball final here Wednesday night by a 48-34 score.

Altomahs, vastly improved over their first performance in which they dropped a 43-20 decision, chased the tall British Columbians closely through three periods but they tired in the last 10 minutes.

Vancouver outscored them 16-7 in the last quarter and remained strong favorites to conclude the three-of-five series in straight games on Friday night.

Hedlunds piled up a 13-8 lead in the first quarter but Winnipeg rallied in the second session and the west coast squad was pressed to take a 20-18 lead to their dressing room at half time.

Altomahs climbed ahead in the third quarter, leading 29-24 at one time, but Hedlunds started to fly in the period's waning moments and entered the fourth quarter with a 32-27 advantage. They were in full flight when the whistle blew.

Captain Reta Penasis, who set the scoring pace in the first game with 14 points, again was Vancouver's top sharpshooter, this time netting 15 counters. Her teammate, Cassie Smith, compiled 12 points and Joan McArthur made nine.

Centre Peggy Flower and forward Mattie Kressy sparked Winnipeg's bid.

Simon's Manager Frowns On Offer

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—Jimmy Johnston said Wednesday he has refused, at least temporarily, an offer for Abe Simon to fight Lou Nova in Washington, May 29, and that he wants at least $25,000 for Bob Pastor to tangle with either Melio Bettina or Booker Beckwith in Chicago.

Billy Rand, Chicago promoter, wired a $18,000 guarantee offer for Pastor to meet the winner of Friday's Bettina-Beckwith bout in Chicago, Johnston said he advised Rand it would be have to be $25,000 with an option of 40 per cent of the gate.

Johnston said Nova's manager, Ray Carlen, had been "trying to decide the time and place" for the Simon-Nova fight.

"I don't think Nova is a big enough attraction to dictate terms," he said. "Certainly Pastor and Simon are bigger."

Just completed a season with provincial juvenile title in their possession and what they think is some kind of a record.

Coach Doug Alexander said yesterday his team went through the hockey season without a loss. They were held to a draw twice by the Notre Dame de Grace Royals—the team they defeated to win the Montreal City championship. In their 20-game season, they scored 100 goals compared to 20 goals scored against them.

Two Last Minute Goals Beat Leafs

WINNIPEG, April 9—(CP)—Portage la Prairie's red-hot Terriers stretched their winning streak to 21 games here Wednesday night when they defeated Edmonton Maple Leafs 6-4 in the second game of the best-of-five western Canada junior hockey final.

Playing before 3,000 fans both teams battled desperately throughout. The score at the end of the first period was 1-1, Edmonton went ahead 3-2 at the end of the second, with Terriers coming from behind to take the contest 6-4.

Joe Bell, fast-skating Terrier forward was the hero of the Manitoban's win, scoring four goals, with Billy Gooden and Lin Bend counting the others. Johnny Baird, with two, Bing Merluk and John Dutchak counted for Edmonton.

Edmonton presented a vastly different squad in comparison with the first game when they were soundly trounced. The appearance in the net of their regular goalie, Wilbur Delaney, appeared to spark the Albertans and they outplayed the Terriers most of the game, but only the faulty shooting of the Edmonton forwards prevented them from skating off with a win.

The teams play the third game of the series here Friday night, the winner advancing against Ottawa Generals in the National final for the Memorial Cup. The Canadian final will be here next week.

CLEAN GAME

The game was cleanly fought with the exception of a short spurt of temper between Johnny Baird, Edmonton winger and Billy Gooden In the first period. Both players were banished with majors.

Bill Heindl, regular defenceman for Terriers, didn't see much action when he retired shortly after the game started with an injured leg after colliding with the Edmonton defence.

Freddie Smitlen, left winger for Edmonton was also slowed up considerably. He suffered a charley horse in the first game here Monday and hadn't fully recovered when he put in an appearance last night.

After Edmonton tied the count at 1-1 on the 11:04 mark of the third period the play see-sawed from one end to the other until the 19:13 mark when Joe Bell scored what proved to be the deciding counter on the pass from Bobby Love. Bell and Love broke away 16 seconds later to register the scoring. Delaney had no chance whatever on any of the shots that beat him.

Maple Leafs lost their defenceman Bud Patry at the end of the second period. In the dressing room he complained of a wrist injury and closer examination led Manager Tommy Hayes to think it was fractured. An X-ray will be made today.

Walter Dorohoy, centre of Edmonton's second line, was used sparingly in the final period, having suffered a pulled tendon while defenceman Eddie Huffman received a knee injury in stopping a flying puck in the same frame. Coach Steve Olander announced after the game that reserve defenceman Abe Superstein and Clint Cowan and goalie Pat Doolan likely would see action Friday in place of the injured men.

Manager Tommy Hays, pleased because his players did not tire in the second game, also said he thinks Maple Leafs will win the next one.

Portage jumped into a 1-0 lead early in the first period when Love shot into the corner, Bend picking it up and relaying to J. Bell, who scored from in front of the goal crease.

Gooden and Baird went to the cooler at the four-minute mark to serve majors for fighting.

Play speeded up midway in the period with Edmonton carrying the attack but shooting wildly. Then Leafs deadlocked the count at 16:27 on a breakaway. Baird outskated the Manitobans, ha shot going into the goal off G. Bell's stick.

The second period opened with fast, close-checking hockey.

At 3:13 Merluk picked up a loose disc in the corner and carried it in to beat G. Bell from close in and five minutes later Baird sent Edmonton ahead 3-1 by tipping Michaluk's shot into the goal while Love was in the cooler.

Delaney kicked a bullet shot out from Bend and on the next Terrier rush Bell got Heindl's pass at centre ice and raced in to beat Delaney for his second goal of the game at 13:46.

Terriers sent five men on the attack when Johnson of Edmonton was chased for interference just after the start of the third and just as he returned Gooden scored to deadlock the game 3-3.

Terriers went into the lead for the first time at 10:48 when Bend banged a shot from close in after taking a passout from J. Bell, only to have Dulchuk knot the count 4-4 again on a breakaway at 11:04.

Delaney blocked J. Bell and Bend who sallied in to take the rebound but on the return Terrier rush J. Bell scored from the goal crease at 19:14. Bell got his fourth goal at 19:30.

SUMMARY

First period: 1—Portage, J. Bell (Love, Bend) 2:35; 2—Edmonton, Baird (Black, Patry) 16:27. Penalties —Gooden (major), Baird (major), O'Reilly.

Second period: 3—Edmonton, Merluk 3:13, 4—Edmonton, Baird (Michaluk) 8:34; 5—Portage, J. Bell (Heindl) 13:46. Penalty—Love.

Third period: 6—Portage, Gooden (Stefaniew) 10:30; 7—Portage, Bend (Love, Bell) 10:48; 8—Edmonton, Dutchak 11:04; 9—Portage, Bell (Love) 19:30. Penalties—Johnson, Dutchak.

WINNIPEG, April 9.—(CP)—A bunch of boisterous youngsters from Portage Plains clumped into the Portage la Prairie Terriers' dressing room here last night predicting they'll be ready to meet the Oshawa Generals in the Dominion junior finals here after Friday night.

The atmosphere was thick in the Edmonton room where manager Hays and Coach Steve Olander bemoaned the injury of three of their players.

"I think we would have won if we hadn't had injuries," said Hays. "We just had a couple of tough breaks." A check-up after the game showed Maple Leafs will be forced to use three reserves for the next encounter. Bud Patry suffered a left wrist injury, Eddie Huffman a left knee injury and Ollie Dorohoy a left ankle injury.

Coach Olander, refusing to believe Maple Leafs are beaten, said defencemen Abe Superstein and Clint Cowan and centre Pat Doolan, the reserves, are just as good performers.

Coach Addie Bell of Terriers said: "It was a good game. . . . The best we've had this season, I think we'll take the next one," he said. Maple Leafs will never 'catch us so bad again," adding that Terriers never missed so many chances before.

Dodgers The Best Looking Judging By Grapefruit Record

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, April 9—(AP)—The best-looking ball club in the south, not even excepting New York Yankees, was Brooklyn's dazzling Dodgers. Other clubs admitted this, but pointed out that pennants are not won in the grapefruit games. The truth of this statement is being bitterly brought home to Brooklyn.

Within the last few days, illness has forced two of the Dodgers' mainstays, Dolph Camilli and Billy Herman, to enter hospital at Baltimore for treatment; both Pete Reiser and Pee-Wee Reese have married and Reiser has been reclassified 1A and may be drafted soon.

Under these circumstances the National League race must be considered wide open again. The Dodgers, however, still are the team to beat and unless disaster strikes they are capable of retaining their National League championship.

This is the way the senior circuit will finish in the judgment of this writer:

1. Brooklyn; 2. St. Louis; 3. Cincinnati; 4. Pittsburgh; 5. Chicago; 6. New York; 7. Boston; 8. Philadelphia.

The Dodgers have been tremendously strengthened by the addition of Arky Vaughan at third base and Augie Galan in the outfield. They have good pitching and a well-balanced array of veterans at every position.

The Cardinals are fast and flashy. However, the Redbirds are going to miss the explosive strength of big John Mize, who batted in 100 runs last season even though he was hurt.

The Cardinals are good, but not quite as poised as the Dodgers.

The stork of the Reds has gone up since they bought Gerald Walker to plug the hole in left field, but they still cannot compare with either the Dodgers or Cardinals in the outfield, the infield or the catching.

Fourth place in the National League, as in the American, may be decided by default. Pittsburgh dragged it last year and has slightly the best of the argument again this season, but both Chicago and New York are bidders.

The Giants have made the greatest effort of any club in the league to improve themselves—naming a new manager and buying players right and left. If they come through in time, the club might move into the first division again.

Neither the Braves nor the Phils have a chance of improving their positions of last year, unless the roof collapses above them.

Snead's Barefoot Performance Irks Gene Sarazen

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9.—(AP)—It is difficult to say which is attracting more attention around the club house of the Augusta National golf course—the tee-off today in probably the last masters' tournament until after the war or the wordy battle going on between Gene Sarazen of the old guard and Freddy Corcoran of the P.G.A.

Freddy has spent two days and nights trying to shoe-horn his competitors into a hotel filled with army officers and war-workers.

So the tournament director and publicity chief of the P.G.A. undoubtedly was not at his best last night when Sarazen sailed into him in public for having encouraged good-natured Sammy Sneed to play a couple of practice holes barefooted.

Corcoran had done it principally as a lark, by way of demonstrating the versatility of one of his star performers, but Sarazen, who still wears knickers and has his own deep rooted ideas about golf and its traditions, was outraged.

"What's the big idea?" he railed at the already smoldering Corcoran. "Is that your idea of publicity for the masters—making a Huckleberry Finn out of Sneed? What we need these days is masters, not barefoot boys. Can you imagine Walter Hagen playing barefoot on this course?"

"Sneed can stand on his record," snapped Corcoran. "I'll match him barefoot against you, for money."

"Yes, and I'll stand on my record" Gene retorted. "I've won all the big tournaments, including this one, and I won them wearing shoes—not kilts or boy scout uniforms. Maybe Sam had better win something with shoes on before he tries stunts like this."

Corcoran failed to explain it was all in fun, but Sarazen continued to bear down.

Sneed has won around $78,000 in the money since he hit the limelight a few years ago.

Ruth's Condition Reported As Grave

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—(AP)—George Herman Ruth, the mighty Babe of baseball's Hall of Fame, lies critically ill in Hollywood hospital—just how dangerously his physician hesitates to say.

Suffering from recurring chills and high fever, the homerun champion of the old New York Yankee machine was ordered on a stretcher this morning from his hotel suite to the hospital.

"Up to now," said Dr. R. Nichols Smith, "we don't know exactly what is wrong with him, but it appears to be a pulmonary, or lung, condition."

Ruth has been in Hollywood eight weeks, playing the film role of Babe Ruth in a story about his former teammate, the late Lou Gehrig.

"He is responding nicely, but for a man who was as dangerously ill as he was when he first came to the hospital, it is too early right now to say that he might not suddenly take a turn for the worse," Dr. Smith said.

Law Supply And Demand Doesn't Hold In Fight Game

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK, April 9.—(BUP)—The war has put the reverse English to that old economics class favorite—the law of supply and demand—and many a prominent boxing manager is elbows deep in a panic. For the first time in recent memory, the demand for prize-fighters with upper case reputations is far exceeding the rapidly diminishing supply.

The day when these managers led their boys from promoter to promoter, begging vainly for work, is gone for the duration. Today promoters are bidding against one another, the customers are clamoring for more and bigger bouts and their are plenty of meteors ripe for the cutting. The catch is that there aren't enough name boxers to go around.

The seriousness of the situation is highlighted by two brief items. The first is the report of Nat Fleischer in the "Ring" that up to date some 238 boxers with legitimate fighting backgrounds have been inducted into the services. The second is the news that the New York Boxing Commission is now considering cutting the age limit to 16 years.

War always has knocked the business rules of boxing out of kilter and the present conflict is no exception. From San Diego to Sandy Hook and from Natchez to Nantucket, there is plenty of money in circulation and the fans are more than willing to spend it on boxing shows. Yet the managers and the promoters just can't meet the demands.

Good fighters are becoming as extinct as Sunday drivers, tennis players and the "Hut Sut Song." The more experienced managers are bedding their fair heroes in banana vaults, providing convoys of bodyguards and posting armies on 24-hour shifts to discourage their less ethical rivals from tampering. At long last, the boys have become precious.

SWITCH TO UNCLE SAM

Here's why—Joe Louis, Billy Conn, Gus Lesnevich, Billy Soose, Red Cochrane, Fred Apostoli and Marty Servo are in uniform now. Tony Zale and Molio Bettina will be shortly. And for each of these name fighters, khaki and blues have provided for dozens of the lesser lights who have switched from Uncle Mike to Uncle Sam.

Consider the situation. Louis will fight Conn and Pastor this summer, although he has already knocked out both these worthies before. Lesnevich has two hot challengers in Johnny Colan and Jimmy Bivins but Zale has no opposition in the middleweight ranks whatever with Cochrane playing possum, there is only Servo left for Ray Robinson.

Sammy Angott has used up all the lightweights except Allie Stolz. There are a few featherweights, bantam weights and flyweights available. But there is no market for small boys in big towns since Henry Armstrong grew up. The customers are willing to pay, but they want socko for their dinner—not tiny lads who are merely fleet afoot.

The reason this shortage has become so serious is that when war comes boxing is hit the hardest. Aspiring gladiators are young and are healthy. In almost 90 per cent of the cases they also are devoid of all dependencies. They constitute A-1 stuff, from the champion to preliminary bum, and they are being tapped accordingly.

Nor is there any adequate source of replacements. Ordinarily, when vacancies are created at the top the boys on the lower rungs are given a chance to rise quickly. But in boxing the obscure boy is as eligible for the draft as the champ. The supply has been cut off right at the source and it may not be renewed until the war ends.

There will be boxing of course. But not boxing as we know it. The champs will fight for the army and the navy but these shows will be few, far between and restricted to four or five big cities. The smaller towns and the whistle stops will be hard put. The draft may have claimed 238 fighters already, but the war has hardly begun. At least our part has hardly begun.

A number of boxing's career men will vigorously deny that their business is in danger because they consider such talk bad publicity. But in their hearts they know there are tough times ahead. If the war continues for three or four years, boxing—nation-wide boxing, that is—will peacefully pass away. A patient can fight anemia and malnutrition just so long — no longer.

Eddie Phillips Retires From Ring: Had Beaten Farr

LONDON, April 9.—(CP)—Eddie Phillips, one of Britain's top flight boxers for the last 10 years, has retired from the ring.

Former light-heavyweight champion of Britain, Phillips has had no action since the war began and decided to quit fighting when he found he couldn't get into condition for a scheduled fight with Al Robinson, husky young heavyweight.

"I tried hard to get really well for my fight with Robinson," Phillips said. "I felt, however, that although my heart is still in the sport, my body is not. I actually had three days in the gymnasium and that was enough to convince me that I would not be doing myself or the public justice if I fought."

Described as "the boxer with the perfect physique," Phillips was rejected by the Royal Air Force because of his health and was the subject of a question raised in the House of Commons by a member who wanted to know why he could not join the Air Force if he was well enough to fight Robinson.

The bout was cancelled a few days later, but Phillips said his decision to retire had nothing to do with the government inquiry. "I am prepared to submit myself to another medical examination if they want me back in the R.A.F.," he said.

Phillips won the light-heavyweight title from Tommy Farr in 1935, had his last fight in July, 1939, when he knocked out Jack Doyle, the Irish heavyweight, in the first round.

He lost his title to Len Harvey, present light-heavy and heavyweight champion, in 1938, suffering a spine injury from which he never fully recovered.

Sports . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—One of the guys who has a big interest in baseball is Jimmy Burns, the millionaire Chicago White Sox eastward trek is Johnny Rigney, whose mother-in-law owns the club . . . Rumor that this will be Branch Rickey's last season with the Cardinals keeps popping up. This time it's from Rochester, where they claim Billy Southworth tipped his hand by shipping some players to the Red Wings while Rickey was saying no shifts were in sight.

Umpire baiting . . . When Letty O'Dea took his San Francisco club to Heraldsburg, Calif., for an exhibition game, he offered umpire Frisco Edwards a free ride . . . Edwards observed O'Doul's new car and new tires, seemed himself deeply into the cushions of the back seat and remarked, "I almost feel like calling the close ones your way today, Mr. O'Deul."

Four East Titles In Five Seasons

TORONTO, April 9—(CP)—Oshawa Generals won the eastern Canadian junior hockey championship for the fourth time in five years Wednesday night, beating Montreal Royals 6-4 to take the best-of-seven series in four straight.

The victory, giving Oshawa their revenge for last year's beating from Royals in the final, qualified the Generals to travel west for the Memorial Cup series against Portage la Prairie or Edmonton.

Omaha Knights Win Hockey Title

OMAHA, April 9 — (AP) — Omaha, a pro-am team during the regular American Hockey Association season, scored a 3-2 overtime victory over Kansas City Americans Wednesday night to win the Association championship. It was Omaha's eighth straight triumph in the playoffs, a league record.

Willie Thomson, Omaha right wing, forked a shot through goalie Buck Kelly in the second overtime period after the Knights had fought an uphill battle to stay even with the Americans, southern division leaders. It was the second overtime victory for the Knights in postseason play.

Exports Feature Exchange Trade

WINNIPEG, April 9—(CP)—Export trade and adjustments by the Canadian Wheat Board comprised the bulk of trade in a fairly busy session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Wheat futures closed unchanged, May at 79¼a cents a bushel and July at 80⅜. Feature of the market news was the reported export to the United Kingdom of about 2,225,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat. This business was done on a basis of exchange of futures and did not reflect in the pit, where other transactions involved purchase of about 700,000 bushels by the Canadian Wheat Board on an adjustment basis and minor mill purchases.

Britain Sending 80 Per Cent. Arms Output Overseas

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., April 9—(BUP)—Great Britain, still surpassing American war production, "has shipped 80 per cent of the total military production overseas and has shipped every soldier for whom there was shipping space," Sir Gerald Campbell, British minister to the United States, said last night.

"Great Britain still is ahead of the United States in production," he said at the University of North Carolina, "but the United States will be beating us by this summer."

Army Requires Many Recruits To Meet Crisis

Men for the armed and reserve forces are needed more urgently than ever in view of the increasingly critical situation facing the Allied Nations, Lt.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., officer commanding 2nd Bn., Edmonton Regiment, (R)CA., told members of the Lions' Club at the regular luncheon meeting; at the Macdonald hotel on Thursday.

Lt.-Col. Hale spoke on several issues of the war that are at present of vital local interest, including the plebiscite, recruiting and the importance of the Alaska highway.

Herbert Knowles, Lions' president, was in the chair. With Col. Hale were several other army officials.

Passage of the plebiscite was of the utmost importance, said Lt.-Col. Hale. While political leaders were in agreement regarding its passage, he said, the people should not be lulled into a false sense of complacency, as those who proposed to vote against it were not saying anything about it. He urged a full turn-out for an affirmative vote.

He related the history of transportation development in the Northwest back from days of boats and dogteams to the present day, to bring out the significance of the proposed highway to citizens of Edmonton and Northern Alberta.

DEVELOPMENT HAMPERED

Early development was naturally hampered due to the transport problems, but with the advent of the airplane for the north, the problem gradually became less serious, he said.

Lt. Col. Hale, who is himself an ardent follower of northern flying, related experiences with such pioneering pilots as Grant McConachie and "Wop" May. At that time he was district superintendent of northern postal service.

He referred to the days of the open cockpit and the mail contract to the Arctic. The finding of gold by Labine, and the finding of oil at Norman, were two important milestones in northern transportation development, he stated.

EARLY MAIL CONTRACT

He spoke of the mail contract applied for by Grant McConachie on the day he fulfilled his promise of hauling 1,000,000 pounds of fish from northern lakes.

Development of the airlines to such remote points as Coppermine, Cameron Bay, Aklavik, and westward to Prince George and Vancouver, were also described.

Lt. Col. Hale stated that the beginning of the construction of the Alaska highway is likely the beginning of another era of transport development into the great Northwest.

Trails that were blazed first by dog team and canoe, and more recently by airplane, will now likely be blazed by vehicle transport on highways, Lt. Col. Hale stated.

Tri-Weekly Mail For Fort Nelson

Starting Monday, April 13, Fort Nelson, now one of the busiest spots in Canada, will be served by air mail service three times weekly, it was announced Thursday by Canadian Pacific Airlines officials here.

Mail planes will leave Edmonton on the new schedule on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays of each week, returning on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays.

For the past year Fort Nelson has had only a weekly mail service.

Up until four years ago the post received mail only four times a year. After planes started to operate through to the Yukon the service was stepped up to 10 times a year.

But with the place an important headquarters for federal department of transport officials and for construction of the Alaska highway, improvements in mail service had to come.

Fort Nelson used to be the home of five or six white traders and about 200 Indians. Now the post has a population of 2,000.

Street Mishaps Cause Injuries Four Persons

Four persons were injured in traffic mishaps on city streets Wednesday night, according to city police reports issued Thursday. Three were pedestrians. None was injured seriously but all required hospital attention.

Eugene Olsen, 9520 118 avenue, age 6, was found lying on the pavement near his home, suffering from lacerations and a slight depression of the skull, shortly after a truck operated by Joseph Havenec, 12532 52 street, passed that spot.

Havenec was stopped by a pedestrian some distance past the scene of the accident and informed that a boy had been struck.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

The pedestrian could not state whether the cattle truck actually struck the boy, but it is believed that the boy, while playing on the street might have run into the box of the truck and fallen to the pavement.

The injured lad was taken to the General hospital by Frank Smith, a passerby.

Another accident occurred at the corner of Jasper avenue and 97 street at 11:40 p.m. Wednesday when Milo Swanson, 11513 87 street, struck a roadster operated by Ray Dixon, 10420 145 street.

Swanson was attempting to turn north up 97 street, when his car collided with Dixon's car which was proceeding west along Jasper. Dixon required hospital treatment to close a gash above his right eye. Two passengers in Dixon's car escaped injury.

SUFFERS BRUISES

Mrs. Stella Robinson, 10327 99 avenue, suffered bruises to her right hand and her left knee when struck by a car operated by Joseph Novak, Calgary. Mrs. Robinson was attempting to board a west bound street car at the corner of Jasper avenue and 104 street, when Novak, it is claimed, failed to stop back of the proper line. Her clothing was torn in the accident.

Miss Doris Foster, 12017 94 street, walked out of the post office and while attempting to cross 100 street, became entangled with the front bumper of a car driven by E. S. McArthur, 9826 86 avenue. Miss Foster was taken to a hospital where it will be determined whether her ankle had been fractured.

Police Chief Warns Against Thieving

Severe measures will be taken with anyone found committing theft at the various salvage depots in the city, Chief Constable A. G. Shute warned Thursday.

Chief Shute stated that petty thievery had been reported at some of the salvage depots of the city.

Reports indicate that most of the pilfering had been the work of children and 'teen aged youths.

The salvage material is being collected for a war purpose and any tampering with it must be checked, Chief Shute stated. Penalties to anyone caught doing this sort of pilfering will be severe, he warned.

60-Game Schedule Too Much For Club Says Aces' Coach

MONTREAL, April 9.—(CP)—The count has reached nine for Quebec Aces, but coach Don Penniston still doubts that it will be "10 and out" for his club although Ottawa Royal Air Force Flyers hold a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five round for the eastern Canadian senior hockey championship.

"This is a fighting club that I'm coaching and as long as I have a team like this I'll refuse to admit defeat," Penniston said Wednesday. "I won't admit that they'll take us in the third game tonight and I won't admit that we'll lose the series just because we dropped the first two games."

Penniston said that the "wear and tear" of a long schedule was beginning to show on the Aces. The 5-4 decision they dropped Tuesday night to the Flyers in Ottawa was the 60th game this season for the club and Penniston said that "they're starting to show the effects of so much play."

Coach Bill Toughey brought his Flyers into town last night so the team could get a good rest overnight for the third game. Toughey predicted that the airmen would make it three in a row over the Aces. He intends to stick by the lineup that brought victory in the second game, with Alf Kunkel taking the place of Mike Miller.

Yanks A Shoo-In Say Ball Writers

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The best handicappers in baseball today tabbed New York Yankees as a shoo-in for the American League pennant and Boston Red Sox to nip Chicago White Sox for second.

And if the Yanks, by some chance, should miss winning their second straight junior circuit championship—their sixth in seven years—there will be a collection of red faces among baseball writers as 73 of the 78 voting in the annual Associated Press poll couldn't see the Bronx Bombers anywhere but on top.

On a basis of eight points for a first-place vote, seven for a second, six for a third, etc., the Yanks piled up 604 points—four less than perfection.

A photo finish, on the other hand, was forecast for the runner-up spot, with the Red Sox getting the call, 488 to 482, despite the two first-place ballots for Jimmy Dykes' dandies.

Johnny Longden Says Regards Real Kentucky Threat

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Johnny Longden wouldn't be surprised if the understatement of the year turns out to be the name of T. D. Grimes' Kentucky Derby hope, With Regards.

The little jockey from Cardston, Alta., feels that With Regards, who has the Arkansas Derby to his credit this year in the string of six straight successes he began last July, has a good chance of taking the $60,000 jackpot May 2.

Johnny should know, because he piloted the rapid-running bargain baby—Grimes picked up With Regards for less than $1,000—in eight of his nine trips to the post.

Johnny came to New York from the Oaklawn Derby to take in the racing which starts today. With Regards, meanwhile, is at Louisville for a brief vacation.

If he can win the derby it will be a nice thing for little Johnny Longden's been riding for some time now. In 1938, he was the top jockey in the business. But the best he's ever done in the derby was when Melodist finished fourth in '37. At 32, Johnny can't have many more derbies left to ride.

Former Edmonton Man First Military Medal Winner Present Conflict

By JACK DeLONG

The first Canadian soldier to be awarded the Military Medal in the Second World War is a former resident of Edmonton. Sapper Fraser Hutchinson, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, is the man who earned the proud distinction and he lived in Edmonton for two years in the early thirties.

His sister, Mrs. Thomas Patterson, ely beauty parlor operator, resides at 8513 101 street. She last saw her brother in August of 1939 when he paid her a short visit here. F. L. Hutchinson of 8513 103A avenue is an uncle.

According to the announcement of Canadian Army Headquarters on March 18 last, which stated that Spr. Hutchinson was to be decorated, the exploit meriting the award took place during a commando raid.

It was also announced that no details of the action can be made public at this time, for military reasons.

It is thought the former Edmonton Sapper was participating in the first commando raid on the coast of France in which a radio locator station was destroyed by the daring Britishers.

PLENTY OF ACTION

Few Canadians in the present war have seen so much excitement as Spr. Hutchinson.

A sergeant major in the 85th Battery of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia prior to the war, he was so anxious to get overseas that he rejoined as a private in an original field com-

Australian soldiers and air men are renowned the world over for their courage and tenacity. In addition they are noted for an extremely unorthodox attitude toward the traditional forms of army discipline.

Well it required plenty of courage for which they are famed, and they further enhanced the Aussie reputation for lack of convention, by their action in New York City recently.

There were five R.A.A.F. sergeants enjoying a brief, one-hour leave in New York. And how do you suppose they passed the time?

In a pub? Sorry, but you guessed wrongly. At a burlesque show? That's the second bad guess you've made.

What those daring young men from the Antipodes did in that

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

A decree absolute of divorce was granted in supreme court Thursday by Mr. Justice W. R. Howson to Allan S. Bulmer from Lora C. Bulmer.

Bank clearings in Edmonton for the week ending April 8 amounted to $4,683,993, it was reported Thursday. Clearings for the same week last year totalled $4,422,385.

Closing exercises for the Olds School of Agriculture were held Wednesday night, with J. R. Sweeney, deputy minister of agriculture, attending. The school will re-open in the fall.

Dean C. R. Young, Toronto, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, arrived in Edmonton Thursday to address a meeting of the Edmonton Engineering Institute, to be held at the Macdonald hotel Thursday evening.

Hon. E. C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, has received the majority report of the arbitration board that deals with the salary dispute between the City of Calgary and civic employees. Mr. Manning said he would make an announcement of the board's recommendations when he received the minority report.

There was a local of the Alberta Farmers' Union organized at Willow Springs April 8, and there was a membership signed up of 24. The following were elected to office: President, G. A. Wilkinson; vice-president, Mrs. C. Rhinehart; secretary, G. Knight; directors, R. Davis, M. McKenzie, Mrs. A. E. Owen, and J. Schneider.

Family Squabble Aired In Court

A family squabble that ended up with the husband being charged with assault, was aired in police court Thursday. Romeo Montpellier, 12901 118 avenue, was fined $15 and costs or 21 days for assaulting his wife Blanche, after an argument over the advisability of permitting his brother to spend Easter night at their home.

The husband accused his wife of throwing a medicine bottle at him and the wife stated that she had been on the receiving end of several vicious kicks.

She laid the charge and he was found guilty and fined.

On another case, three women were found guilty of creating a disturbance and fined $10 and costs or 14 days. The guilty ones were Lily Hays, Peggy Simonson and Adeline Graham.

Arrange Funeral For City Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. Delle Taylor, 10087 125 street, whose death occurred Thursday in a city hospital, will be held Thursday evening at Andrew's funeral chapel, Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson officiating.

Mrs. Taylor had been ill for a month, suffering from pneumonia and complications. She was born in the township of Floss, near Elmvale, Ont. After studies at Ellingwood Collegiate Institute she obtained a commercial specialist certificate and taught for five years in the Renfrew Collegiate Institute. She was also an instructress in Edmonton commercial and high schools.

Mrs. Taylor was a life member of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

She obtained a B.Sc. from the University of Alberta later securing a masters degree. She was married in 1913.

Burial will take place in St. Thomas, Ontario.

Bulletin Copies Reach Whitehorse Eight Hours After Leaving City

Copies of the Edmonton bulletin, leaving Edmonton at 12:45 p.m. are delivered at Whitehorse, Yukon Territory at 9 p.m. of the same day.

Thirty years ago, by the overland route, used by Robert Service, bard of the Arctic, the trip would have taken five months.

Of course the secret of the fast time over the Yukon "trail of '42" is the modern swift ship of the air.

Canadian Pacific Airlines planes, now operating on a thrice-weekly schedule to and from the Yukon, carry a half dozen Bulletins each trip for readers in the north.

The distance by air is about 1,046 miles between Edmonton and Whitehorse. Overland it is more than 1,500 miles.

When Robert Service made the overland trip from Edmonton to the Yukon by foot and dog team in 1904 he set a new record by making the trip in five months.

The great north is no longer the far north.

Accommodation At City Hotels Is 'Sold Right Out'

Hotel accommodation was at a premium during Wednesday and Thursday as hundreds of delegates thronged to the city to attend the annual convention of the I.O.D.E.; the Edmonton spring livestock show, and the annual sale of fur pelts staged by the Edmonton Fur Auction.

Wednesday night a telephone canvass of all city hotels revealed there was not a single vacant room, and Thursday morning there was little let up in the "full up" situation. At the Macdonald hotel a long list of patrons had to wait until rooms were cleaned and made ready after over night occupancy. It is anticipated that the situation will return to normal Friday.

"Land Surveys" Now Under Way At University

Annual "land survey" of the Garneau and University districts and adjacent areas got underway Thursday as the regular year-end University of Alberta applied science faculty's survey school opened. First and second year engineering students with transits, levels, compasses and other survey instruments started their "outdoor" lessons which will keep them occupied until May 3.

Planned to give the prospective engineers some practical training in the use of instruments, and practice in calculations on results, the course has been a feature of the applied science courses at the U. of A. for many years.

START EARLY

Second year students start "work" at 7 a.m. to continue during the forenoon with the actual surveying, and spend the afternoons figuring out results. Freshman "alide rule" undergraduates begin at 10 a.m., spend most the afternoon with survey work, and are "obliged" to use their evenings completing calculations. That 7 a.m. commencement for second year engineers, is one hour earlier than the regular lecture and laboratory class starting time.

Final examinations in the two first year applied science faculty courses were completed earlier this week. Third and fourth year engineers will write their exams with other U. of A. students, beginning Saturday, April 11.

GO TO CAMP

Majority of students attending the survey school, it is expected, will attend the annual training camp of the U. of A. contingent of the Canadian Officers' Training Corps at Sarcee, from May 3 to 17, before leaving for summer employment.

Plan Standardize Municipal Busses

Busses sold to municipal transportation systems in future will be of standard size and will be painted khaki with grey tops, according to information received here by Thomas Ferrier, street railway superintendent, from the Canadian Transit Association.

This order standardizing the busses to be sold transportation systems was made recently by the Dominion transit controller, and applies to Canadian and United States busses.

Mr. Ferrier stated that no trucks are being purchased at present, with the exception of the three trolley busses on order with a British firm.

The busses are being standardized to speed up production, and also to make them available for military service should the occasion arise.

Provost Flier Is Going East On New Duties

Sgt. Wireless Air Gunner G. E. Chamney, 21, of Provost, is leaving Friday for eastern Canada, to begin operations duties, following a leave of 14 days spent with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Chamney of Provost.

Sgt. Chamney was graduated recently from No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School of the R.C.A.F. at Lethbridge.

A brother, D. H. Chamney, is now training as an observer at a Manitoba R.C.A.F. station.

Officer Tells Army Training To Optimists

The presence of technicians in the infantry is becoming increasingly important, Maj. David A. Petrie told members of the Optimist Club at their regular meeting at the Macdonald hotel on Thursday.

Major Petrie is home on leave from the east where he is a training instructor. He addressed the Optimists on "Army Training".

He touched upon the many types of training required in an army unit, and stressed the need of men in the infantry who are technicians.

Not only must the man of the army be physically able but he must possess high mental qualities as well, Maj. Petrie stated.

VARIED TRAINING

Training is becoming increasingly diversified and complicated with correlation of types of training and co-operation between the different units, being the major factors in final results, he said.

Training for weapon manipulation, personnel specialists, transport, operational, and close combat, all come under the curriculum of the army perfection and all must be correlated. All these now require technical skill, he said.

Dr. W. Worbert, newly elected president of the Optimists, was in the chair.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

"Do you think that it is the duty of men of military age, who are not in the active services, to join the reserve army?"

THE ANSWERS

HARRY G. TURNER, secretary, school board: I do think that whatever possible, the men should join the active or reserve unit. There are others, however, who are engaged in essential war industries, or who are taking part in community affairs of a vital character, who do come under such a blanket proposal.

BETTY MARTIN, Girl Guide secretary: I think that it is the duty of every one of us to do everything we can, either in the active service, or in the reserve for home defence. I don't think that such a program should be limited to men, and believe that women should train themselves for emergency just as much. If it is impossible for them to "go active".

GEORGE BURTON, clerk: There is no doubt about it, every able-bodied man should prepare himself for a role in this war. If a man is not in the active army, he should be in the Reserve Army and regardless of his calling or vocation, if he is fit to serve, he should do so. Nothing short of an all-out effort will do and the enemy plays no favorites. So, to quote the Boy Scouts motto, 'Boys Be Prepared.'

Mexican Pesos Pass For Good Canadian Bill

A city cafe was the victim of fake money Wednesday night when two men paid for their meals at the Paris Cafe with a Mexican 10 peso bill.

N. Kusma, the cashier, gave the men the proper change before he realized that he had accepted the Mexican money as a $10 bill.

Norway Fights Against Hitler Toward Victory

Second anniversary of Germany's brutal and treacherous attack upon Norway was observed on Thursday as Free Norwegians fighting with the Allied Nations continued their struggle against the enemy.

In the Scandinavian country, too, the unhappy anniversary is remembered by those Norwegians who are still continuing the "underground" quarrel with the Quislings who betrayed their country, and the German occupation troops who daily grow more nervous because of the unfaltering hatred of the natives and the unrelenting drive of sabotage, Norwegians in this country stated.

Norway fights on, determined never to yield, and plays a large part, through its free naval force and its airmen and army men who are assisting the Allied forces. Despite the temporary military defeat, the patriots' trust in a final victory, and are turning their trust to good use through active endeavor.

Before the invasion, on April 9, 1940, Norway was a modern country, democratic and industrious, self-reliant and forward-looking. It was, by and large, a happy though not wealthy country.

For two long years, the Norwegian people have been harassed by endless new rules and regulations, confiscations and requisitions, decrees and demands, orders and threats.

Yet, they have taken up the quarrel with the foe, and will not falter until right has conquered over might.

Continue Protests At Larger Areas

At a public meeting of the ratepayers of Spruce Grove and Tomahawk municipal districts Wednesday, in the Winterburn hall, protests against the formation of a large municipal district including the two were reviewed.

The special committee which put the case for Spruce Grove before Premier Aberhart also gave its report. Objections of Spruce Grove to being included in the large unit will be kept alive, it was learned.

One suggestion advanced was that the Spruce Grove fight should be put before the United Farmers of Canada, Alberta section, to enlist support of that organization. Formation of a Spruce Grove Taxpayers' Protective Association was discussed but no action was taken.

Edmonton Soldiers' Win Promotion

Several former residents of Edmonton, now serving in active army units attached to M.D. 13, have been promoted recently.

Most of them were well known in the city.

Sgt. Angus McRitchie was promoted to the rank of Company Sergeant Major, and is now stationed at the Red Deer Training Centre.

The following, now stationed at the Currie Barracks Infantry Training Centre, have been promoted as follows: Cpls. William Graham and Neil S. Kerr to the rank of Sergeant. Lance Corporals Roy F. Laughy, William G. Reid and Frank C. Cooper have been promoted to the rank of Corporal.

Maynard Charges Ottawa With 'Sneak Disallowance' Of Alberta Measures

Ottawa's recent action in disallowing Alberta acts which he said were designed to relieve the people of Alberta of their unjust burden of debt was termed a "sneak disallowance" by Hon. Lucien Maynard, provincial minister of municipal affairs, at a meeting of Social Credit supporters in the Social Credit Hall, Jasper East, Wednesday night. More than 200 persons packed the hall.

Mr. Maynard made this statement when Premier William Aberhart opened a series of educational lectures which he said were designed to make people "think things out." Under this program, people would be taught the methods of public speaking and to understand and teach the theories of Social Credit and monetary reform.

PEAK IN UNEMPLOYMENT

Because people did not understand the causes behind it, there was a possibility the world would see the highest peak in unemployment ever reached in its history after this war, Premier Aberhart declared.

He labelled the lecture series "discussion drills."

Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry, was chairman, and N. B. James, Social Credit M.L.A., Edmonton, was also on the platform.

The premier made only a brief reference at Wednesday's meeting to unemployment and the existence of poverty in the midst of plenty, stating these social ills were caused by the people's ignorance of their causes, with the resulting inability to rectify them.

"Economics is a new subject for discussion and people are just beginning to know something about it," the premier declared.

EATING SUGAR AND CANDY DOES NOT CAUSE SUGAR-DIABETES.

In normal, healthy people, eating sugar or candy has nothing to do with sugar diabetes. This disease is caused by a failure of the pancreas to produce insulin which controls the amount of sugar stored in the liver or left in the blood stream.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix: I had one of the best wives with which God ever blessed a man. She was sweetheart, wife, friend, business partner, a prop upon which I leaned in every time of trouble. Four years ago she passed away. Since then I have lived alone, cooked my own meals, cleaned the house, been a hermit. When I return home from my work, it is like entering a tomb, and at night I lie awake wondering what is to become of me. Dorothy Dix what if I should get sick with no one to call to for help?

I have one son who wants me to change my way of living and I don't know what to do. I am 62 but very active. Here are the five solutions of my problem that I am considering: (1) Should I break up my home and go to live with my son? I do not think that would be good for me nor his family. I would be an intruder. His home would no longer enjoy the privacy it is entitled to.

(2) Have my son come and live with me and his wife keep house? They have a comfortable home of which his wife is mistress. Every woman wants a home of her own. I have no reason to expect her to sacrifice her home for me. (3) Employ a housekeeper? Very good, but when dinner is over, what then? I would lack what I still crave, which is companionship. (4) Sell everything and board with a good family? That would mean the sacrificing of all the little things that are so dear to me—my library that I have spent a lifetime collecting, my garden, my beautiful trees and plants, even my faithful dog. (5) Get married? At 62 there is not much romance left, and what woman wants to marry an old man who has only $1,000 in the bank, an old-fashioned house and a salary only as long as he can report for work?—A LONELY OLD MAN.

Answer: 62 is not too old for a man to marry if he can find a woman in his own age class who is congenial, who has enough money of her own to make her independent and the marriage a fifty-fifty financial partnership, but who is lonely and who longs for companionship and having a husband to fuss over and get up good dinners for. And there are plenty such women.

Failing that, the boarding house is your next best bet. Don't sacrifice everything else to your furniture, as so many of us do. We hate to part with our things that we have had so long and that have so many memories, but once we make the plunge we are glad to be free from their tyranny. You can take a few of the bits of furniture and some of your books with you wherever you go to give you a touch of home, but you will be astonished at how much junk that you care nothing for, that you have accumulated.

Recently I have been going over my own library picking out books to send to the camps for the soldiers, and I have been amazed to find how many volumes I had that I haven't even looked at for 20 or 30 years.

Family Pools Sugar To Make Cake For Treat

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Let each member of the family contribute part of his weekly sugar allowance to one gala springtime cake. Then call it a family feast.

ORANGE COCOANUT CAKE

Two cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1-3 cup butter or other shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, unbeaten; ¾ cup milk.

Orange cocoanut cake is special treat for a gala affair, with each family member contributing his weekly sugar allowance.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add orange rind to butter and cream thoroughly; add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy.

Add egg and beat very thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Four tablespoons sugar, 1¼ tablespoons flour, dash of salt, 1 egg yolk, ½ cup orange juice, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 tablespoon butter. Combine sugar, flour and salt in top of small double boiler; add egg yolk and fruit juice and mix thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook 10 minutes, or until thickened, stirring constantly. Add orange rind and butter. Cool. Makes enough filling to spread between two 8-inch layers.

ORANGE SNOW FROSTING

One egg white, unbeaten; ¼ cup sugar, 2½ tablespoons water 1 tablespoon orange juice, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind.

Combine egg white, sugar, water and orange juice in top of small double boiler or in small bowl, beating with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed.

Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater and cook 4 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks.

Remove from boiling water; add 1 tablespoon orange rind and beat until thick enough to spread. Spread on cake. Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of two 8-inch layers.

Tomorrow's Menu

Luncheon: Fresh vegetable soup, toasted bacon sandwiches, raisin cookies, tea, milk.

Dinner: Fricassee of veal shoulder, new potatoes, parsley carrots, spring salad, gala orange cocoanut cake, coffee, milk.

Points For Parents

By EDITH THOMAS WALLACE

Father: "You're so generous, that's why money slips through your fingers so easily, I'm glad you're not stingy."

Some of the terms we use in talking about our attitudes toward money need clarifying and re-defining for children's understanding.

Fibrositis means an inflammation of the fibrous tissue which lies in between the bundles of muscular tissue. When the fibrous tissue is inflamed this produces the soreness and pain in the affected muscles which are the chief symptoms of which the patient complains.

The patient suffering from muscular rheumatism is easily led to believe that most of the trouble lies in the muscles; however this is not the case, as rheumatism has a constitutional cause. When the primary cause is established, then comparatively trivial causes such as overuse of the muscles or exposure to cold or damp, may bring on the attack. Cold or damp weather will produce a temporary slowing down of the circulation in some particular part and the muscles of that part will become painful, stiff and sore because of the accumulation of rheumatic toxins in that area due to the sluggish circulation. Cold, damp or over-exertion are only exciting causes and have the power to induce an attack only when the fundamental toxemia is present.

Fibrositis may attack the muscular tissues of any part of the body but its favorite sites are the muscles of the neck, the lower back, and the legs. It is more common among men than among women.

It occurs in both an acute and a chronic form. The symptoms vary according to whether the disease is acute or chronic, but as a general rule the attacks which are acute at first, steadily grow worse until a more or less permanent muscular disability results.

In the acute attack, the pain in the muscles may be very intense, and the patient will make every effort to keep from moving the affected parts. In the chronic form the painful sensation may be noticeable when the patient attempts to move the muscles and may subside into a dull ache at other times. Considerable stiffness is the rule and the patient will notice the stiffness becoming worse when he is cold. If left to his own devices the patient with muscular rheumatism will try to keep as quiet as possible and will hug the fire.

In the treatment of muscular rheumatism I find the fast taken at the start will obtain the best possible results, as the fast will clear the blood chemistry closer to the normal. Also, during the fast the body will clear itself of the accumulated substances which are so irritating they produce lameness, soreness and stiffness when deposited in muscular tissue. Usually the pain in the muscles will leave after two or three days in the fasting regimen when the patient is undergoing an acute attack. During the fast the enema must be used.

Following the fast the greatest benefit will be secured if the patient uses a diet consisting of leafy green vegetables for several days. After this time a well-balanced diet may be used and the patient may be given a liberal amount of meat and plenty of the cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables, but should be cautioned against using too much starch or sugar.

Heat is of value in securing relief from the pain of muscular rheumatism. This temporary relief is gratefully received but the patient should remember that permanent relief comes only from removing the systemic cause of the trouble.

Cowboy Songs For Fun with Friends

"Chisholm Trail" a Favorite

Any get-together is more fun with a cowboy songbook. From the first bar of "The Old Chisholm Trail" everyone melts into good fellowship!

"Woke up one morning on the Chisholm trail,
Rope in my hand, a cow by the tail
Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya!"

Then there's that great favorite, "The Texas Song," full of a cowboy's lonely longing:

"The hard, hard ground will be my bed
And the saddle seat will hold my head.
I'll make my home on the wide, wide range,
The people there are not so strange,
And the beloved, sentimental "Heart In The Heart of Texas" of moonbeams and starshine:
"There's a Heart in the Heart of Texas Beating true blue just for me—"

A thrill to sing all your favorite verses! Our songbook has words and music for over 18 ever-popular cowboy songs, including "Red River Valley," "The Cowboy's Dream," "Git Along Little Dogies," Piano and some guitar accompaniments.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Popular Cowboy Songs" to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, 60 Front Street West, Toronto Ont. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of songbook.

Wednesday Dinner Party Social Highlight I.O.D.E. Convention

BRINGING the crowded first day of convention to a close and enjoying a brief social respite from the busy events of the day, more than 200 members of the Alberta Provincial Chapter of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, sat down to dinner in the main dining-room of the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday evening. The formal affair marked the social highlight of the two-day convention as delegates, from all parts of Alberta, refreshed in a social way, friendships begun over business during the day.

Standards of interest bearing 34 Union Jacks formed an escort to the honored guests, and led the way to the flower-graced head table where their places were marked. Mrs. R. E. Jones, regent of the Edmonton Municipal chapter, presided as toastmistress.

AT HEAD TABLE

Seated at the head table were Mrs. Corn T. Cassiman, provincial M.P. for East Edmonton; His Worship, Mayor Fry, and Mrs. Fry, Mrs. R. C. Marshall, provincial president of the I.O.D.E., and Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. George H. Steer, K.C., and Mrs. Steer, Dr. and Mrs. S. W. Dyde, Mrs. E. D. Wright, Mrs. R. Scott, Mrs. T. Bishop, Mrs. E. C. Pardee, Mrs. R. L. Nicolson, Mrs. R. B. Clifton, Mr. H. E. Wilson, Mrs. J. A. MacGregor, Mrs. M. J. Hilton, Mrs. R. W. Manley, Mrs. H. Carroll and Mrs. T. W. Copland.

Striking a naval note, an interesting tableau was presented in which a group of Sea Cadets, Edmonton division, a number of I. O.

Honored guests will be Wing Commander and Mrs. J. A. Hutchison and Sqdn. Ldr. G. Milsom. In the receiving line will be ACZ. T. Pickering, Mrs. L. MacQueen, Wing Cmdr. and Mrs. Hutchison, Sqdn. Ldr. G. Milsom and senior hostesses Mrs. A. E. Ladler and Mrs. D. E. Cameron.

Refreshments will be served by candlelight under the direction of the W.A. to No. 4 I.T.S.

Members of the dance committee include Second Airerafteman T. Pickering, W. J. Lovell, C. M. Hay, A. E. Kent, N. E. Long, F. G. Loker, R. J. Tait, N. Merrill and Mr. Frank W. Coffey of Knights of Columbus War Services Hut.

Annabel Evans To Be Married On Thursday

Wearing a chocolate brown tailored suit, beige accessories and corsage of talisman roses, Annabel Lambright Evans, daughter of Mrs. M. Lambright and the late Henry Lambright of Port Hammond, B.C., will become the bride of Capt. Ronald Ross MacDonald of Blairmore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Angus MacDonald also of Blairmore at a ceremony in Norwood United Church on Thursday evening.

Rev. W. T. Young will officiate. The bridegroom, recently with the Canadian army overseas, will go east later in the month to take a further military course at the Royal Military College, Kingston.

The couple will be attended by Sgt. and Mrs. Frank Pow of Edmonton. Mrs. Pow will wear a beige tailleur, accessories to tone and corsage of roses.

Later a reception will be arranged at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Evans, 11237 86 street, where about 30 guests will be present. The bride's table will be centred by a three-tiered wedding cake and graced with flowers and tapers. For the present, the couple will live in the city.

I.O.D.E. Urges Internment Of Japanese

Resolutions finding endorsation at the sessions of the 22nd annual meeting, provincial chapter of Alberta, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, in the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday were highlighted by two dealing with the treatment of Japanese "nationals" in Canada. The more important of these passed endorses that "Japanese activities should be kept over these people," and that "we, the municipal chapter, do hereby beg that all adult Japanese Nationals brought East of the Rockies be interned for the duration." This resolution was brought in by members of the Municipal Chapter at Lethbridge.

The other read in part: "Be it resolved that we do all in our power to prevent these Japanese nationals from being used for cheap labor."

SCHOLARSHIPS

With the present shortage of teachers and nurses in view, a resolution was passed that a fund of at least $1,000 be subscribed by the provincial chapters to provide, beginning this September, for (1) four grants to graduates of grade XII for study in the Provincial Normal School to the value of $110 each and (2) that six grants be given to graduates of Grade XII for study in any of the recognized Hospital Training Schools in the province, of $100 each.

The grants will be made to students with high scholastic standings, and who are in need of financial aid for further study. This scholarship will be given only for the duration of the war. Mrs. R. C. Marshall is to name this scholarship.

The fourth resolution dealt also with the shortage in teachers in the province. It recommended that a request be made "to the government of Alberta, requesting that the government finance by loan, the Provincial School Training of outstanding Grade XII graduates, who are unable to finance this course themselves." The resolution came from the Tannisuk chapter, I.O.D.E., Calgary.

Presbyterian W.M.S. Delegates Meet In Edmonton Wednesday

MORE than 75 delegates from all parts of Alberta foregathered in the lecture hall of the First Presbyterian Church on Wednesday to attend the first session of the two-day annual meet of the Women's Missionary Society, Alberta Provincial of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Mrs. R. S. Gibson of Calgary presided.

Registration was held during the early afternoon, with Mrs. Burkand Mrs. Bell in charge.

The afternoon devotional was taken by Mrs. H. O. T. Burkwall and the Calgary Presbyterial. Welcome to the delegates was given by Mrs. D. G. McQueen and replied to by Mrs. J. H. Williamson of Olds.

In the report of the recording secretary, Mrs. R. L. Freeman of Calgary told members of a number of presbyterial resolutions passed.

Mrs R. McRae of Edmonton, literary secretary, spoke on the increased sales during the past year, and said that the "Glad Tidings" showed an increase of 30 over last year. Mrs. A. Carmichael of Carstairs, exchange secretary, reported that she had written to other secretaries, suggesting an exchange of papers.

Mrs. G. Metcalfe of Calgary, reported as lantern slides secretary. Mrs. H. Lucking of Medicine Hat gave a revealing report on the library, outlining several attractive pieces of literature. Seven hundred and sixty-three pounds of reading material was sent out and distributed to various points, by the supply secretary, Mrs. C. W. G. Browning.

WELCOME AND WELFARE

In welcome and welfare work, more emphasis has been put on removals from one district to another, according to Mrs. J. Marshall of Calgary, Welcome and Welfare secretary.

Mrs. A. H. Rogers spoke on the police ceiling.

Highlight of the evening service was an address by Mrs. H. Hermanson, superintendent of the Rocky Mountain Hospital, who spoke on her work in Formosa amongst the Japanese young people attending English schools. Mrs. Hermanson spoke in place of Miss Mary Anderson, returned missionary from Korea and Japan, who was unable to be present.

Evening devotional services were presented by the Young People of the Presbyterian Sunday Schools and featured a dookology in verse and song. Mr. Bert Oscroft was the leader and was assisted by Mr. Mitchell Scott and Mr. Calvin Chambers.

There are four young women's organizations in existence now, with 175 members, and 26 girls' organizations, 22 of which are affiliated with C.G.I.T. Total members in the girls' organizations is 297. These figures were quoted by Miss C. Browning, Mrs. C. Bearisto of Calgary and Mrs. Polley also of Calgary, at the evening session.

RESOLUTION

A resolution was passed at the meeting, commending the provincial government for the steps they have taken in regard to promoting the reading of the Bible in Alberta schools and urging that selected portions of the Bible, or selected links in a book, selections of which is to be read each morning followed by the Lord's Prayer.

Miss Lipsett Of Winterburn Marries Here

Charming in its informality was the pretty wedding ceremony performed in the manse of Garneau United Church on Saturday when Margaret Cathleen, daughter of Mrs. F. D. Lipsett of Winterburn, became the bride of Mr. Percy George Henley, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Henley of Penhold. Rev. D. C. Ramsey officiated.

For her wedding the bride wore a dress of sky blue silk, fashioned afternoon length with flaring skirt, rounded collar and full-length sleeves. The collar and waistline of her frock were marked with cording. A wide brimmed navy hat, navy accessories and a shoulder corsage of deep red carnations completed her ensemble.

Mr. Douglas Munro of Innisfail was best man.

Mrs. Lipsett chose for her daughter's wedding a silk frock of air force blue with white figured pattern, and her accessories were black. Mrs. Henley wore a smart wine ensemble with wine accessories.

The couple will make their home at Penhold.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Trowbridge for a few days, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Melling have now returned to their home in Calgary.

PART of our war-time duty is to make sure we give our families the kind of food they require for health and energy, so this week I'd like to tell you of a specially nourishing, delicious food to include in this week's shopping.

We all know that Nature's almost perfect food is MILK, and realize that this should never be stinted in the home. Unfortunately, some children, and grown too, don't like drinking milk alone, so here's how to popularize this very necessary food. Simply serve it with Fry's Cocoa.

Fry's Cocoa is rich in Calories (the name given to describe the energy value of food) and is also rich in IRON. Now Iron is practically the only important constituent lacking in milk, so by adding Fry's Cocoa to milk you increase the amount of Iron consumed by 50%.

Plan to serve Fry's Cocoa every day—its delightful chocolaty flavor makes it a most welcome food in your home.

Fry's Cocoa is very economical and today actually costs less than before the war.

Fry's Cocoa

For each cupful required, mix together DRY, half to one teaspoonful of Fry's Cocoa, with sugar to taste. Add enough cold milk to make cocoa and sugar into a smooth paste. Pour on boiling milk and stir well.

Edmonton Liberal Women Honor M.P.'s At Luncheon Wednesday

HONORING the two Liberal representatives of the city in the Dominion government, Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce and M.P. for West Edmonton, and Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, M.P. for East Edmonton, members of the Edmonton Women's Liberal Club entertained at an attractively arranged luncheon in the Empire room, Hudson's Bay Company store, on Wednesday.

Spring blossoms in a deep silver bowl centred the head table where the honored guests sat.

Mrs. J. B. Stewart, president, introduced the guests, Hon. and Mrs. James A. MacKinnon, Mrs. Casselman, His Worship, Mayor John Fry and Mrs. Fry, Mr. Hugh John Macdonald, K.C., M.L.A., and Mrs. Macdonald, and Mme. J. H. Tremblay, wife of Capt. Tremblay, M.L.A. for Grouard, Alberta, who is now in active service overseas.

Following the luncheon, Hon. Mr. MacKinnon and Mrs. Casselman both spoke briefly, the former outlining the necessity of an affirmative vote in the plebiscite on April 27 and telling of the work of the Canadian Trade Mission to South America. Mrs. Casselman spoke informally of cabinet ministers in Ottawa and the talent of their present work as leaders of the nation's war effort and of the work they are planning for the rehabilitation of soldiers and the restoration of peace-time industry after the war.

Luncheon was served at small individual tables throughout the room. Miss Jean R. Boyle was in charge of arrangements and her assistants were Mrs. Chester D. Gainer, Mrs. W. C. Barrie, Mrs. Gerald O'Connor, Mrs. Rock, Mrs. J. Leslie Bernard and Mrs. A. Vallancourt.

Coffee (a town) is located in Bacon county, Georgia.

Wedding Vows Pledged At Hairy Hill

Moonlight blue satin fashioned on Grecian lines fashioned the wedding gown worn by Cora Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Hodgins of Hairy Hill, on Saturday afternoon when she spoke wedding vows with Mr. Thomas J. Sloane, only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Sloane, of Saskatoon, Sask. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents. Miss Myrtle Schnieder played the wedding music.

With her gown the bride wore a chapel length veil of bridal net, caught in her head with a halo of orange blossoms, and an arm bouquet of Easter lilies and roses.

Miss Marion Hodgins attended her sister as bridesmaid. She was gowned in a dusty rose alpaca crepe gown, and carried a bouquet of colorful spring flowers.

Mr. F. B. Hodgins, brother of the bride, was best man. During the signing of the register, Mrs. H. Reimer sang "Deep in My Heart There Is a Gladness."

Mrs. Hodgins wore a navy blue crepe gown with the Sloane chose a flowered navy crepe.

Following the ceremony, a buffet lunch was served. The bride's table was attractively arranged with spring flowers and a tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Sloan are spending a short honeymoon in Edmonton, prior to taking up residence in Lloydminster, Sask. Travelling, the bride wore a beige frock, topped with a rose coat, and beige accessories.

Missionary To Speak At Norwood W.M.S. Tea On Thursday

Miss E. Mann, former missionary to the Philippine Islands will be guest speaker at a tea in the parsonage on Thursday afternoon, when members of Norwood United Church W.M.S. entertain. Miss U. Palmer will sing.

Reports Are Given; Councillors Named At I.O.D.E. Convention

Reports covering welfare and educational work of the Provincial chapter of Alberta, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire highlighted the Wednesday morning session of the annual meeting. War work of the provincial chapter, the main issue of I.O.D.E. work at present, was dealt with on Thursday, Mrs. R. C. Marshall presided.

Election of councillors to serve on the executive of the provincial chapter was a feature of the Wednesday morning session. Results of the election were announced at the banquet in the evening.

SECRETARY REPORTS

"I.O.D.E. chapters in Alberta have realized the sum of $88,282.00 during the past year," said Mrs. W. Stanley Rose, secretary. "Of this sum, $46,421 was raised for war work, the Hon. Frank Oliver chapter, Edmonton with Mrs. J. T. Peterson, as regent, raising the sum of $6,403.57, the largest sum raised by an Alberta chapter this year."

Life memberships were presented this year to Mrs. H. A. Black, Edmonton; Mrs. T. Bishop, Calgary; Mrs. C. Westley, Lethbridge; Mrs. Morrix, Lethbridge and Mrs. Marian Oliver, Medicine Hat.

Resolutions passed by the chapter included resplutions urging (1) identification badges to men rejected for active service; (2) Weekly period of prayer for victory; (3) Stoppage of sale of land to Hutterites, Doukobors and Mennonites until after the war.

CHILD. FAMILY WELFARE

Child and family welfare work remains one of the biggest avenues of I.O.D.E. work even when war work is, by necessity, their chief concern, reported Mrs. A. J. West of Calgary. The sum of $4,603 was expended in this work during the year, she reported.

The sponsorship of I.O.D.E. summer camps for underprivileged children during summer; gifts to needy at Christmas, and at regular intervals during the year; assistance to the sick and shut-ins; clothing to needy families and supplying of milk tickets and other comforts to needy, are avenues of their work in this behalf, she said.

Edmonton chapters spent $1,160 on child and family welfare work; Lethbridge chapters, $250; and other centres provincial chapters, she declaimed. In the Maternity Assistance Fund, $89 was expended.

EDUCATIONAL WORK

Educational work remains one of the major works of the I.O.D.E. reported Mrs. T. W. Copland, educational secretary. The year winners of the Coronation Bursaries, begun to commemorate the visit of Their Majesties to Canada in 1939, were won by Miss Veronica Davies, Red Deer; Mr. Donald C

Cards of Thanks 6

As a service to readers the Edmonton Bulletin has prepared a booklet of correct wordings for "Cards of Thanks." It is free upon request. Call, write or phone

In Memoriam 7

To assist readers in preparing "In Memoriam" notices, the Edmonton Bulletin has prepared a booklet of some very appropriate verses. It is free upon request. Call, write or phone for a copy

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Donald Cumming, who passed away April 9, 1936.

"Far and oft our thoughts do wander,
To a grave not far away
Where they laid our darling baby
Just six years ago today."
—Ever remembered: Mammy, Daddy and Sisters.

In loving memory of Mr. G. D. Tiviotdale who passed away on April 9, 1941.

"Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest,
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because he was one of the best."

Shorthorn Club Elects H. Byers To Presidency

Mr. Byers succeeds G. F. Thomas of Fort Saskatchewan.

Joseph Johnston, manager of the University of Alberta farm, was elected vice-president and G. F. Thomas was appointed secretary-treasurer pro tem.

Executive members include George R. Ball, Clover Bar; F. H. Dunstan, Lloydminster; Claude Gallinger, Edmonton; W. Lyle Robinson, Vermilion and G. F. Thomas, Fort Saskatchewan.

The meeting heard brief talks by four prominent livestock men of western Canada, on important subjects concerning raising of good quality livestock.

POLICY A SUCCESS

M. V. Campbell, who was for one year in charge of the introduction and operation of the Dominion government beef grading policy in British Columbia, spoke on the success of their well adopted policy of insisting upon retailers to display the grade of beef sold, in letters as prominent as price lettering.

W. W. Sharpe, Stettler, past president of the Canadian Shorthorn Association, also spoke briefly.

The importance of planning the beef raising program with a view to paying more attention to commercial markets was stressed by Jack Byers, Calgary, district supervisor of federal production services.

QUALITY NEEDED

Mr. Byers stated that more attention should be paid to quality as the market for that type of beef is open. He stressed the advisability of farmers looking ahead to the problems that can be expected to arise after the war.

D. A. Campbell, acting livestock commissioner, and J. W. Durno, fieldman supervisor for British Columbia and Alberta, spoke briefly.

G. Thomas, retiring president, was chairman of the meeting.

DIRECTORS ELECTED

The following were elected district directors: Bremner, W. Clark; Clover Bar, Robert Byers; Camrose, John Woods; Dunstable, J. S. Nixon; Edmonton, Joe Johnston, Claude Gallinger; Fort Saskatchewan, G. M. Thomas; Innisfree, John Gordon; Levoy, H. S. Tuck, O. T. Smiley; Leduc, M. McHugh; Millet, D. D. Harvey; Mundare, F. H. Dunstan; Namao, J. A. Sutherland; Radway, John MacLachlan; Strathcona, G. R. Ball; St. Albert, Angus McDonell; Rochester, W. J. Shopland; Tofield, L. H. Graham; Viking, Steve C. Swift; Vegreville, Chris Schneider; Vermilion, W. L. Robinson, D. A. Andrew; Wetaskiwin, Roland Recnagle; Waskatenau, Dr. G. J. Hope; Westbeley, Alex Craig.

Geoffrey Thomas, Fort Saskatchewan, was appointed secretary-treasurer pro tem, to take the place of Miss Louise Holmes, who resigned after serving in that capacity since the club's beginning.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

J. C. Aceves of New York, who with J. L. O'Connor won the Eastern States contract bridge pair championship recently, is not a newcomer to bridge. He has not been playing for many years, but recently started again.

V

Here is an old play from the days of whist and auction that helped Aceves win a top score.

East put the ♠ 2 of spades on the opening lead, and Aceves sitting South, took the precaution of letting him win the trick. The purpose was to gain a tempo in case East shifted to spades.

East led the second spade, and South was in. South led a diamond and the trick was ducked to East. Now East was unable to continue spades, because of declarer's foresight. His heart lead was won by the ace. Declarer established the diamonds, losing a trick to West.

West saw that clearing the spades was useless, so he returned the jack of hearts, forcing the king. When the diamonds were cashed, East was squeezed, and declarer did not have to guess the club finesse to win 10 tricks.

At other tables declarer lost contract by winning the first spade trick.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It is most disheartening to a mother when the lovely skin of her young baby is marred and disfigured by an ugly rash. She knows she keeps the baby clean and she is sure this is not a disease, rather a baby neither has a fever nor feels badly, except for the itchiness of the rash. But what is this rash which comes and goes, being more virulent at times and at others seeming to fade so that she is encouraged to feel that this time it will depart forever?

While no one but a doctor can examine the rash and say just what it is, if the rash has been pronounced eczema then there is much the mother can do to help its cure.

It's well for her to know that it is not contagious, that just salves or lotions alone won't end it permanently and that it is a long and arduous task for a doctor to put his finger on the particular food or foods, or the special factors in the environment, which are causing the baby to respond allergically in this particular way.

If a mother knows these things she will be more patient about failure and will understand how lucky she has been—not how wise—when the cause is discovered promptly and the rash is brought to a dramatic finish.

There are dozens of causes of eczema and various types of the rash itself from dry and flaky to moist and oozing. The younger the baby, the more limited its diet and the more confined its environment, the easier it is to hit the villain on the nose. The small baby who gets only milk, orange juice and some vitamin D, has only these three as causes for an allergic ailment due to diet. If these are not to blame

What To Do

Don't be caught unawares by a husband who calls half an hour before dinner and says he is bringing his best customer home—or your career girls who have out-of-town guests drop in unexpectedly—be prepared.

Keep a reserve "party" shelf that will help you the makings of a delicious meal.

Of course, there are many goodies you can keep that simply need the aid of a can opener, some artful garnishing and your best china and linens, to make them look appetizing. But you may also keep a shelf of emergency foods that require a little more time to concoct but are still "just minute."

Minute Make-Ups

If your hair is "knotty", inclined to be kinky and unmanageable, try brushing it! One hundred strokes a day is your quota! A weekly shampoo with a liquid soapless shampoo, with a half-teaspoon addition of vinegar in the last rinse, is the short cut to glamour. If you keep your hair soft, silky and manageable it will be easy to fix it in a minute. If you have hair that requires this care, tuck it in; keep it sleek, shining, like a silken cap.

FAMOUS SKYLINE BLACKS OUT IN TEST

Aussie In U.S.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister for external affairs, is pictured in New York. He's here on a special mission for his government.

Here is a view of lower Manhattan and its famous skyline, taken from the roof of a hotel across the East River in Brooklyn, as lights burn brightly in America's biggest city. The streaks are caused by passing river craft. Then, at a given signal . . .

All lower Manhattan is plunged into complete darkness as the business and financial section undergoes its first blackout in history—a rehearsal for the "real thing." Searchlights sweep the sky in the background.

The above photograph, recently received at the headquarters of the National War Services Committee of the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada and Newfoundland, pictures children in one of Britain's "War Nurseries" enjoying milk puddings and drinking milk supplied by the 89 Clubs of the Kinsmen Association. Pledged to supply British Children with 1,500,000 quarts of whole milk before July 1, the Kinsmen have now announced shipments totalling 1,750,000 quarts and a continually increasing supply of milk to the needy youngsters "over there" as long as the need exists. The Kinsmen Clubs are inviting other organizations and citizens to help buy this milk by dropping a dime in one of the Kinsmen Milk for Britain mottles in 18,000 neighborhood stores in Canada and Newfoundland, or, by sending larger contributions to local Kinsmen Clubs or to National Kinsmen War offices at 26 Wellington St., West, Toronto.

Escape To Adventure

By Priscilla Wayne

JUDITH RANIER, who ran away from her Chicago fiance, BOB ORWOOD has become involved in a murder plot at Lost Mesa, New Mexico impersonating a nurse, and went to the home of CHARLES and BERTHE DIRKEY, where she learns Berthe is trying to murder her husband, by giving him slow poison provided by her helper, DR. KARL KRUG. Berthe Dirkey believes Judy is Krug's sister, Greta, whom he sent to help her kill her wealthy husband, PETER BURKE. Charles Dirkey's nephew, likes Judy and she has just managed to get away from the Dirkey home long enough to slip over to Peter's cabin and tell him of the plot. They decide she should return to the house and stay until she can obtain some of the powder as evidence. She previously has substituted powdered sugar and the patient has been growing stronger. Meanwhile detectives report to Judy's father and Bob Orwood. They traced Judy to Santa Fe, where they believe she registered as Greta Krug and left the following day and was married. The detectives lost this girl's trail at Los Angeles Mr. Ranier and Bob decide to go to Santa Fe to take up the search. Charles Dirkey, much chastened, talks with Peter. When Berthe attempts to give him his medicine he "clumsily" spills it and refuses to have her get any more. Finally Berthe realizes Charlie knows she is trying to poison him. She leaves Judy to care for him, believing he doesn't suspect her, and goes upstairs. Judy explains the entire plot to Dirkey, meanwhile waiting her chance to pass some of the powder to Peter as evidence against Krug and Berthe. Sukoa, Berthe's Oriental servant, finds Judy trying to call the sheriff and takes her to Berthe's room. Berthe is more than ever suspicious. After locking Judy in her room, Berthe finds that the powders are missing. She returns to the room where Judy admits she flushed them down the drain Berthe forces Judy to address a note to Peter, telling him she plans to return to Chicago to the man she virtually left at the altar. A detective, finally tracing Judy to the Dirkey home, arrives there but is told by Berthe that no such girl has been there. He goes to Peter's cabin, where Peter has just received the note from Judy.

CHAPTER XXIV

AFTER the detective left Peter Burke's home that young man sat as calmly as he could, putting two and two together, making the whole fabric of truth out of the facts he had gleaned here and there. The detective had not withheld any information.

"The young woman is one of Chicago's best known young debs," he explained to Peter. "You say that she has been at the ranch house?"

"Yes."

"When did she leave?"

"I had a letter from her a while ago, delivered by a messenger. The note said she left this morning."

"Had you expected her to leave?"

"No, just the reverse. I hadn't any intimation that she was going."

"It's easy enough to put two and two together," the detective said, erroneously. "She probably loves this bird she ran away from. don't know why she shouldn't, he's wealthy, he's of her own social set. She's young and good-looking."

"What did you say his name was?" Peter asked just as though the very sound of the name were not hateful to him.

BOB ORWOOD

"Bob Orwood, he's in the brokerage business, well-to-do by inheritance, I guess, but well-to-do now in his own right."

"You say a pretty fine man?"

"A prince of a fellow," the detective said enthusiastically. "Why a girl would run away from a fellow like that passes my understanding."

"You say they were about to be married?" Peter asked, every bit of this information a stab in his heart but determined to get the whole truth and once and for all put this girl out of his mind and his heart if such a thing could be done.

ENGAGED

"Yes, they were engaged to be married," the detective said loquaciously, glad of an opportunity to tell the story.

"The wedding invitations were out. The gang all invited, you see. They were to be married in the church the next day. I guess the church was even decorated and everything all set before the old man finally admitted the..."

"You mean the truth that his daughter had run away."

"Yes, that's right. I suppose they were ashamed of it."

"I suppose they hardly knew what to say or do."

"I suppose that, too," Peter said slowly. "I could know how they'd feel."

"Of course you could. She's a beautiful gal, too, and a very fine girl, don't misunderstand me," the detective said.

"I think she's well thought of by everyone. The trouble is she's just been spoiled, had too much money and too much admiration. It spoils women, you know. But her father is absolutely certain she loves this young man."

"How about the young man?" Peter asked, feeling himself suddenly anxious to hear the answer to this question.

MODEST SORT

"Well, I guess he's rather a modest sort of person, I mean he doubts that she cares very much for him. Wouldn't any fellow feel that way who got jilted right at the very altar, you might say?"

"I guess so," Peter said. If the other fellow felt at all as he felt, then he felt pretty bad, he decided.

"I've got a picture of Miss Ranier," the detective said, "want to look at it?"

And so Peter had held the picture of Judy in his hands. There was no doubt about it, the girl in the picture and the girl he had taken to the ranch house were one and the same.

The girl in the picture had Judy's fine, wide-open eyes, the cloud of dark curly hair that fell to her shoulders; the fine, sensitive mouth and proud carriage. There was no doubt about it, the girl in the picture was Judy Ranier, the girl he'd fallen in love with.

WHAT NEXT?

The detective said he meant to be getting back to Santa Fe as quickly as he could. Undoubtedly he had traced the girl to this stop off, but what had happened to her next—that was the thing that had to be decided. He drove away.

Peter Burke sat stupidly at his typewriter, but he wasn't trying now to write the book that had promised so much, he was just thinking of Judy Ranier, the girl who had come into his life only to leave it.

He wondered why she had lied to him. He remembered very well the conversation.

"Believe me, Peter," she'd said, "I needed that job. If any girl ever needed that job I was that girl."

And when he had reproached her and said that he could never marry a rich girl she had laughed. "Maybe I just took that name because it sounded pretty. Maybe I had heard about that girl, too, and I didn't know what other name to take."

She had lied to him. But why? That, too, was very evident, he decided moodily. She was a tender-hearted girl, she felt sorry for him.

There hadn't been any doubt about his regard for her, he'd worn his heart on his sleeve from the very moment he first gazed into her wide apart brown eyes. With him it had been love at first sight.

And she had felt sorry for him. She was a tender hearted, kind girl, she had felt sorry for him. Of course that was the explanation.

She had lied just to save him pain and embarrassment because she was kind and tender hearted. Why, Uncle Charles' trouble had grieved her greatly, frightened her.

Charles Dirkey. The thought of that name came like an electric shock to Peter. Charles Dirkey. Why Judy Ranier had been willing to risk her life to save Charles Dirkey. Why, then, would she have gone away?

Like a stroke of lightning the truth came to him. She hadn't gone away. Perhaps she hadn't even written that note. Thinking back, how would he know whether she had written it or not, he had never seen a specimen of her handwriting.

The letter could very well have been written by Berthe Dirkey herself. Why? The answer to that question was obvious, too. To allay his suspicions, to get him out of the way, to pretend that Judy had gone.

Judy was the person he was interested in. Berthe did not suspect that he knew the plot going on against her husband. What thing more natural than she should pretend Judy had gone away, and, having pretended it to him, why would she not pretend it to the detective?

JUDY IN DANGER.

Arrived at that point in his reasoning and Peter was in his car, driving as rapidly as he could to the ranch house. This minute Judy Ranier might be in danger—in grave danger.

As a matter of fact, Judy Ranier was in grave danger.

The car Berthe Dirkey had been watching for all day long, fairly wringing her hands in nervous anxiety to see come speeding up the driveway, had finally arrived.

Berthe met Karl Krug as he leaped out of his car. She said, "Thank God, you've got here. I tried to telephone. I didn't know whether you were on the way or not. Oh, Karl, I've had a terrible day, I'm almost wild with anxiety."

"Shut up," Karl Krug said. "Tell me what happened. You put in the telephone call. I was out of the office. When I came back they told me you were frantically trying to get in touch with me. I telephoned here. I got the report that the telephone was out of order. What happened?"

"Sukoa cut the telephone wire," Berthe said. "This girl that you sent here—oh, Karl, I'm sure that you're mistaken—she was trying to telephone the sheriff when Sukoa overheard her and cut the telephone wires. Karl, I'm certain you're mistaken, the girl isn't Greta. She's some other girl."

"I know that now," Karl Krug said grimly, and there was a look on his face that even Berthe cringed from. "When I went back to my office there was a letter from Greta

ROTARIANS OBTAIN INFORMATION

Area Commandant Outlines Details Army Improvements

Increase In Firepower, Greater Care Of Men Among Many Changes

Main differences between the fighting forces of the Great War of 1914-1918 and the present globe-girdling conflict were outlined to the regular Rotary club luncheon at the Macdonald hotel on Thursday by Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant. The main differences are: tremendously increased fire-power, more generous and more varied rations and greater comfort and care of the fighting men.

Dealing with the increased volume of fire-power, Lt. Col. Brown recalled that "In the very early stages of the war the only weapons we had were rifles and bayonets, revolvers and four machine guns. Later on Mills bombs, rifle grenades and a few more machine guns were added, but still the main fire power of the infantry battalion was the man's rifle. The main means of transport was, of course, horses and mules.

STRIKING CHANGE

"Today there is a striking change. The infantry battalion has around 800 men, divided into headquarters, headquarters company composed of six platoons, signals, anti-aircraft, mortars, Bren carriers, pioneer and administrative and four rifle companies, each of three platoons, each of three sections of eight to 10 men.

"It is really in firepower that the difference is most noticeable. Besides the rifle and bayonet and revolver, each battalion has 52 Bren guns, 22 two-inch mortars, six three-inch mortars, 22 anti-tank rifles, 16 Thomson sub-machine guns, smoke and high explosives.

"Replacing the horse and mule, we find 118 vehicles, including 21 Bren carriers, six Blitz buggies, 32 Jeeps (G.P.1, 500-weight), 14 thirty-hundred-weight, one water tank, two cars, two station wagons, 35 motor-cycles and 60 bicycles."

Lt. Col. Brown also outlined in detail fire-power of the artillery and the changes that have taken place in other branches of the service, all tending toward increased mobility and additional fire-power.

THE COOK-HOUSE

He recalled that the meals of the last war, with little variation, consisted of the following: Breakfast, mush, bacon, bread and tea. Luncheon: Mulligan or pot roast, potatoes and tea. Supper: Cheese, bread, butter, jam and tea.

In contrast, he gave the following menu for the soldier of today: Breakfast: Oatmeal porridge, boiled eggs, toast, bread, butter, maple syrup and coffee. Luncheon: Hot dog, fried sausages, creamed carrots, potatoes (baked in jackets), tapioca pudding, bread, butter, tea. Supper: Soup, macaroni and cheese, shepherd's pie, jam tarts, bread, butter, cheese, tea.

Greater care of the men is taken and fuller documentation is kept in order to avoid delays and confusion in pension cases.

Documents to be filled out include:

Combined declaration form and attestation and medical history; service and casualty form, particulars of family, field conduct sheet, certificate of service with discharge certificate, form of will and pay-book, dental record, medical case history sheet, medical board proceedings, transfer clothing statement, last pay certificate, proceedings on discharge and sundry pay and record cards, a total of 13 different forms.

Lt. Col. Brown outlined the training of the soldier of today.

He urged that both the Active and Reserve Armies be built up for the great tests to come.

Maynard Flays Dominion On Debt Question

He devoted the major portion of his address to a lecture on the art of proper thinking and chose for discussion at the next meeting in the hall—April 23—the topic "Still the people are being fooled."

ASSAILS OTTAWA

In a brief address, Mr. Maynard assailed the federal government for disallowing Alberta debt legislation which he declared was drafted to protect the people of this province. It was a "sneak disallowance," he said.

The minister pointed out that the dominion had announced disallowance of the provincial measures after the Alberta legislature had prorogued and when it was too late for members to take any action to counteract the decision. This he termed a sneaky method.

He warned that the province still had power to suspend debt actions through the Legal Proceedings Suspension Act, which had not yet been proclaimed but which might be proclaimed and thus brought into force until such time as the privy council had given its decision on the Alberta government's appeal on disallowance of the Debt Adjustment Act.

Mr. Maynard urged the people to organize and take steps to fight the threat to provincial laws designed to protect their democratic rights.

NO DEMOCRACY

He said that while Canada was sending men overseas to fight for democracy "there is no democracy at home." They were fighting for their homes and yet the dominion government was taking no action to protect their homes. "Democracy is the Christian concept of society but it is now in retreat here and abroad, the speaker claimed.

"Don't permit the fight the boys are making overseas to be lost on the home front by a government which is prepared to hand everything over to the monied interests," the minister urged, declaring the fight against evil must be made not only on the military front but also the home and personal fronts.

It was announced at the meeting that a public debate between the Hustler and St. Elmo Social Credit Groups would be held in the hall April 15 at 8 p.m.

Getting Around

precious hour was certainly unorthodox. They spent the 60 minutes in a fashionable women's millinery shop on Fifth avenue picking out new Easter bonnets.

And you can name your own price if you guess the name of the lady on whose behalf the shopping tour was made.

This unusual millinery hunt with the military flavor was made on behalf of Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, brave young wife of the gallant defender of Bataan Peninsula and now commander-in-chief of United Nations' forces in the Western Pacific.

"Do you think she'll like this one?" the hirsute would ask his mates.

"Nope; too flappy," would come the expert reply.

"Well this ought to suit her," and other such exclamations featured the shopping session.

Finally three bonnets were selected and Sgt. Mickey Cizz explained to the bewildered saleslady, who eyed the forwarding address with bug-eyed amazement:

"We are sending the hats as a small gesture to show our appreciation of the great job General MacArthur is doing for our two countries, Australia and the United States."

The courage of Australia's fighting sons has ever been a glorious thing. But surely these five airmen are entitled to some new form of decoration for gallantry.

It takes superlative courage at any time for a man to select a hat for a woman. But for five fighting men to pick out three hats for the wife of their commander-in-chief is a demonstration of courage, born not of this earth.

Seriously we'll bet the gift will be appreciated by both the general and his Missus.

Nazi Battleship Conquers Against Norse Cliff

Cowering as close as possible to the cliff which protects it from R.A.F. bombers, the 35,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz is pictured holed up in steep-sided Aas Fjord, near Trondheim, Norway. British planes keep close watch on the sea raider and heavy British naval units lurk nearby, ready to pounce if the German ship moves out.

D. E. members of the Edmonton House and Commander W. G. Agnew chapters, Mr. Frank Williams and Loretta Walker took part.

The cadets presented a short exhibition of naval drill work and, later, formed a background for the novelty naval dance and song presented by the girls. Miss Ethel McKenzie was author and Mrs. W. S. Ross was director. Members taking part included Enid, Norma and Ada Bruce, Jean Hughes and Betty Boon.

TOASTS

Toast to the visitors was proposed by Mrs. E. D. Wright and replied to by Mrs. T. Bishop of Calgary; Mrs. R. W. Manley of Wetaskiwin; Mrs. Scott, Fort McMurray and Miss Helen Carroll, Rocky Mountain House.

Mrs. George H. Steer, K.C., proposed a toast to the I.O.D.E. to which Mrs. R. C. Marshall replied. "The British Empire," said Mr. Steer, "is founded on the sea and by sea-faring men. Therefore, it is appropriate that much of your work be concerned with work for the Navy League of Canada.

"The Navy League supports hostels in nine Canadian seaport centres, where men of the Merchant Marine are aided. In these hostels there is provided accommodation for 100 to 600 men and commissariat equipment for as many as 3,000. One of the aims of the League, too, is the sponsoring of Sea Cadets. There are 75 such cadets in Edmonton, and they are taught the principles of seamanship, and the discipline necessary for them to continue in the great tradition of the British Navy."

MRS. CASSELMAN SPEAKS

Toast to the Empire was proposed by Mrs. R. B. Clifton and answered by Mrs. Cora T. Casselman. In her reply, Mrs. Casselman traced the growth of our democratic way of life and mentioned the contributions that great men of English history had made to it.

"That faith might be justified in us, and that their dream of making "the Empire mightier yet" might be realized, are tasks awaiting us today," she said. "As the men of old built for us, so we must build for our children and coming generations in the Empire. The principles of freedom of worship, speech, work and meeting that are the basis of our Empire's greatness must be now widened to include a new freedom, the freedom from want and fear, one of the clauses of the Atlantic Charter. That new freedom will be achieved in our time," she said, "through our own work, and through the co-operation of our Allies today, the United States, Russia and China."

Guests included Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Claude Finlay, Mrs. E. B. Allsopp, Mrs. Chloe Lyndon, Mrs. J. J. Leask, Mrs. Walter Sprague, Mrs. Noel White, Mrs. James Johnson, Mrs. Maley, Mrs. E. Mortimer, Didsbury; Mr. Donald M. Roberts, Calgary; Mr. Alfred Harper, Lethbridge; Mr. James Baugh, Mirror and Mr. Gerald E. Wilson, Edmonton.

Financial returns for this work were gratifying during the year, she said, showing an increase over last year. Assistance was given to students to aid them in their school work; many chapters adopted schools, supplying them with supplies, books and "extras"; the sum of $475 was spent on schools, she said. Prizes were given for school work.

Libraries in schools received $324, and libraries in the chapters districts benefitted to the amount of $511. Total amount spent by the chapters on the Bugsary Fund was $4,836.

GIRL GUIDES

Girl Guide groups within the I.O.D.E. number 11 Guide companies and six Brownie packs, with a total membership of 415. During the year two groups withdrew from the I.O.D.E. and have been re-registered under the provincial Guide headquarters.

The aim, in order in supporting the Guide movement was to give local Guides, Brownies and Rangers the moral backing of a recognized group of women, known for their good standing in the community.

The problems of insufficient leaders and lack of adequate training facilities have worked against the order this past year, she said. She was confident that these would be met in the coming year.

Mrs. R. J. G. White, of Calgary, provincial organizing secretary, said the membership in the provincial chapters, in the four municipal chapters, 98 primary, 14 junior and one provincial chapter, total 3,229 members.

Membership in junior chapters totals 271, reported Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, assistant organizing secretary.

Edmonton: Mrs. H. A. Black, Mrs. T. W. Cogland, Mrs. R. H. Coles, Mrs. P. P. Griffith, Mrs. M. J. Hilton, Mrs. Victor Horner, Mrs. R. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. R. C. Marshall, Mrs. C. L. Morton, Mrs. R. Roscoe, Mrs. Stanley Ross and Mrs. E. D. Wright.

Lethbridge: Mrs. R. M. Glover and Mrs. Robert Laing.

Medicine Hat: Mrs. Allison Smith; Drumheller: Mrs. C. N. Jamieson; Blairmore: Mrs. H. Pinkney; Didsbury, Mrs. E. A. Huett; Lacombe: Mrs. W. Pratt; Ponoka: Mrs. T. C. Michie; Red Deer: Mrs. M. Beatty and Miss Thelma Graham; Vegreville: Mrs. E. W. White and Mrs. L. B. Yule and Wetaskiwin: Mrs. R. W. Manly.

pany of the Royal Canadian Engineers when his battery disbanded soon after the outbreak of hostilities. His exploits from then on read like a movie thriller.

GOES TO FRANCE

With a few of his comrades from the R.C.E. he went to France early in the spring of 1940.

Caught in the mechanized wave of the German sweep through Belgium and France Spr. Hutchinson fought with the British troops during their dogged rearguard withdrawal action until the beaches of Dunkirk were reached.

There the former Edmontonian was blown from a truck by a bomb from the deadly Stuka. He and a fellow-Canadian, also gallantly manned a machine gun in a futile effort to blast the death-dealing birds out of death from the skies.

Hutchinson suffered a fractured skull and other serious injuries. Helpless and left for dead on those hot, sodden sands, he was taken prisoner by the conquering Huns.

He lingered between life and death for some months in a prison military hospital, while his wife and family in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, were informed he was "missing and presumed dead."

But after a few months, the fighting Canuck was up and around.

WORKED AS DRIVER

Finding out that Hutchinson was a good truck driver his captors put him to work as a munitions transport driver, transporting munitions from place to place in occupied France.

But they reckoned not with the daring lad from the land of the Maple Leaf.

Spr. Hutchinson watched his chance. One day it came.

While his guards relaxed their vigilance momentarily, the former Edmonton man, jammed the accelerator of his big truck to the floor, headed toward the edge of a high cliff, and with a fellow prisoner compdnion, leaped from the machine and ran.

The truck rushed over the precipice and crashed into smithereens far below.

In the ensuing confusion Hutchinson made good his escape from the guards, by hard running and dodging.

He hid in a wood until nightfall, and then made for unoccupied France.

FOOLED GERMANS

For weeks he worked his way past German troops, hiding by day and travelling by night.

He finally crossed the border into Spain, and from there went to Portugal. At a Portuguese port he was taken aboard a British destroyer, bound for Gibraltar.

It would seem that Spr. Hutchinson had obtained just about his share of thrills since the Battle of France. But it was not the case.

Minister Honored At Dinner Here

Honoring Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce and M.P. for West Edmonton, Hon. John C. Bowen, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, was host at an informal dinner at his residence Wednesday evening.

In addition to Mr. MacKinnon, guests included Mr. Justice Frank Ford, Mr. Justice George B. O'Connor, Neil D. Maclean, K.C., H. H. Parlee, K.C., Gerald O'Connor, K.C., J. Boyd McBride, K.C., S. C. S. Kerr, K.C., W. J. Dick and R. V. MacCosham.

German submarine and a German supply ship.

Writing to his sister, Mrs. Patterson, about the scrap, Spr. Hutchinson said:

SUB ON RUN

"We soon had the submarine running for it and I'm afraid it got away, but we certainly blew hell out of that supply ship."

It was 16 months after Dunkirk that he arrived safely back in England. He had been six months making his way from France to Portugal.

Getting back to England he rejoined his old unit. Later he took commando training. In civilian life he is a plasterer.

He was always a happy-go-lucky fellow," was the way his sister described her brother. Mrs. Patterson has two other brothers also serving with the forces.

Carl (Tommy) Hutchinson is with an army unit somewhere in Britain, while Leon R. C. Hutchinson is serving in the Royal Canadian Navy.

The Hutchinsons are a fighting crowd.
